THESE ARE THE LINKS

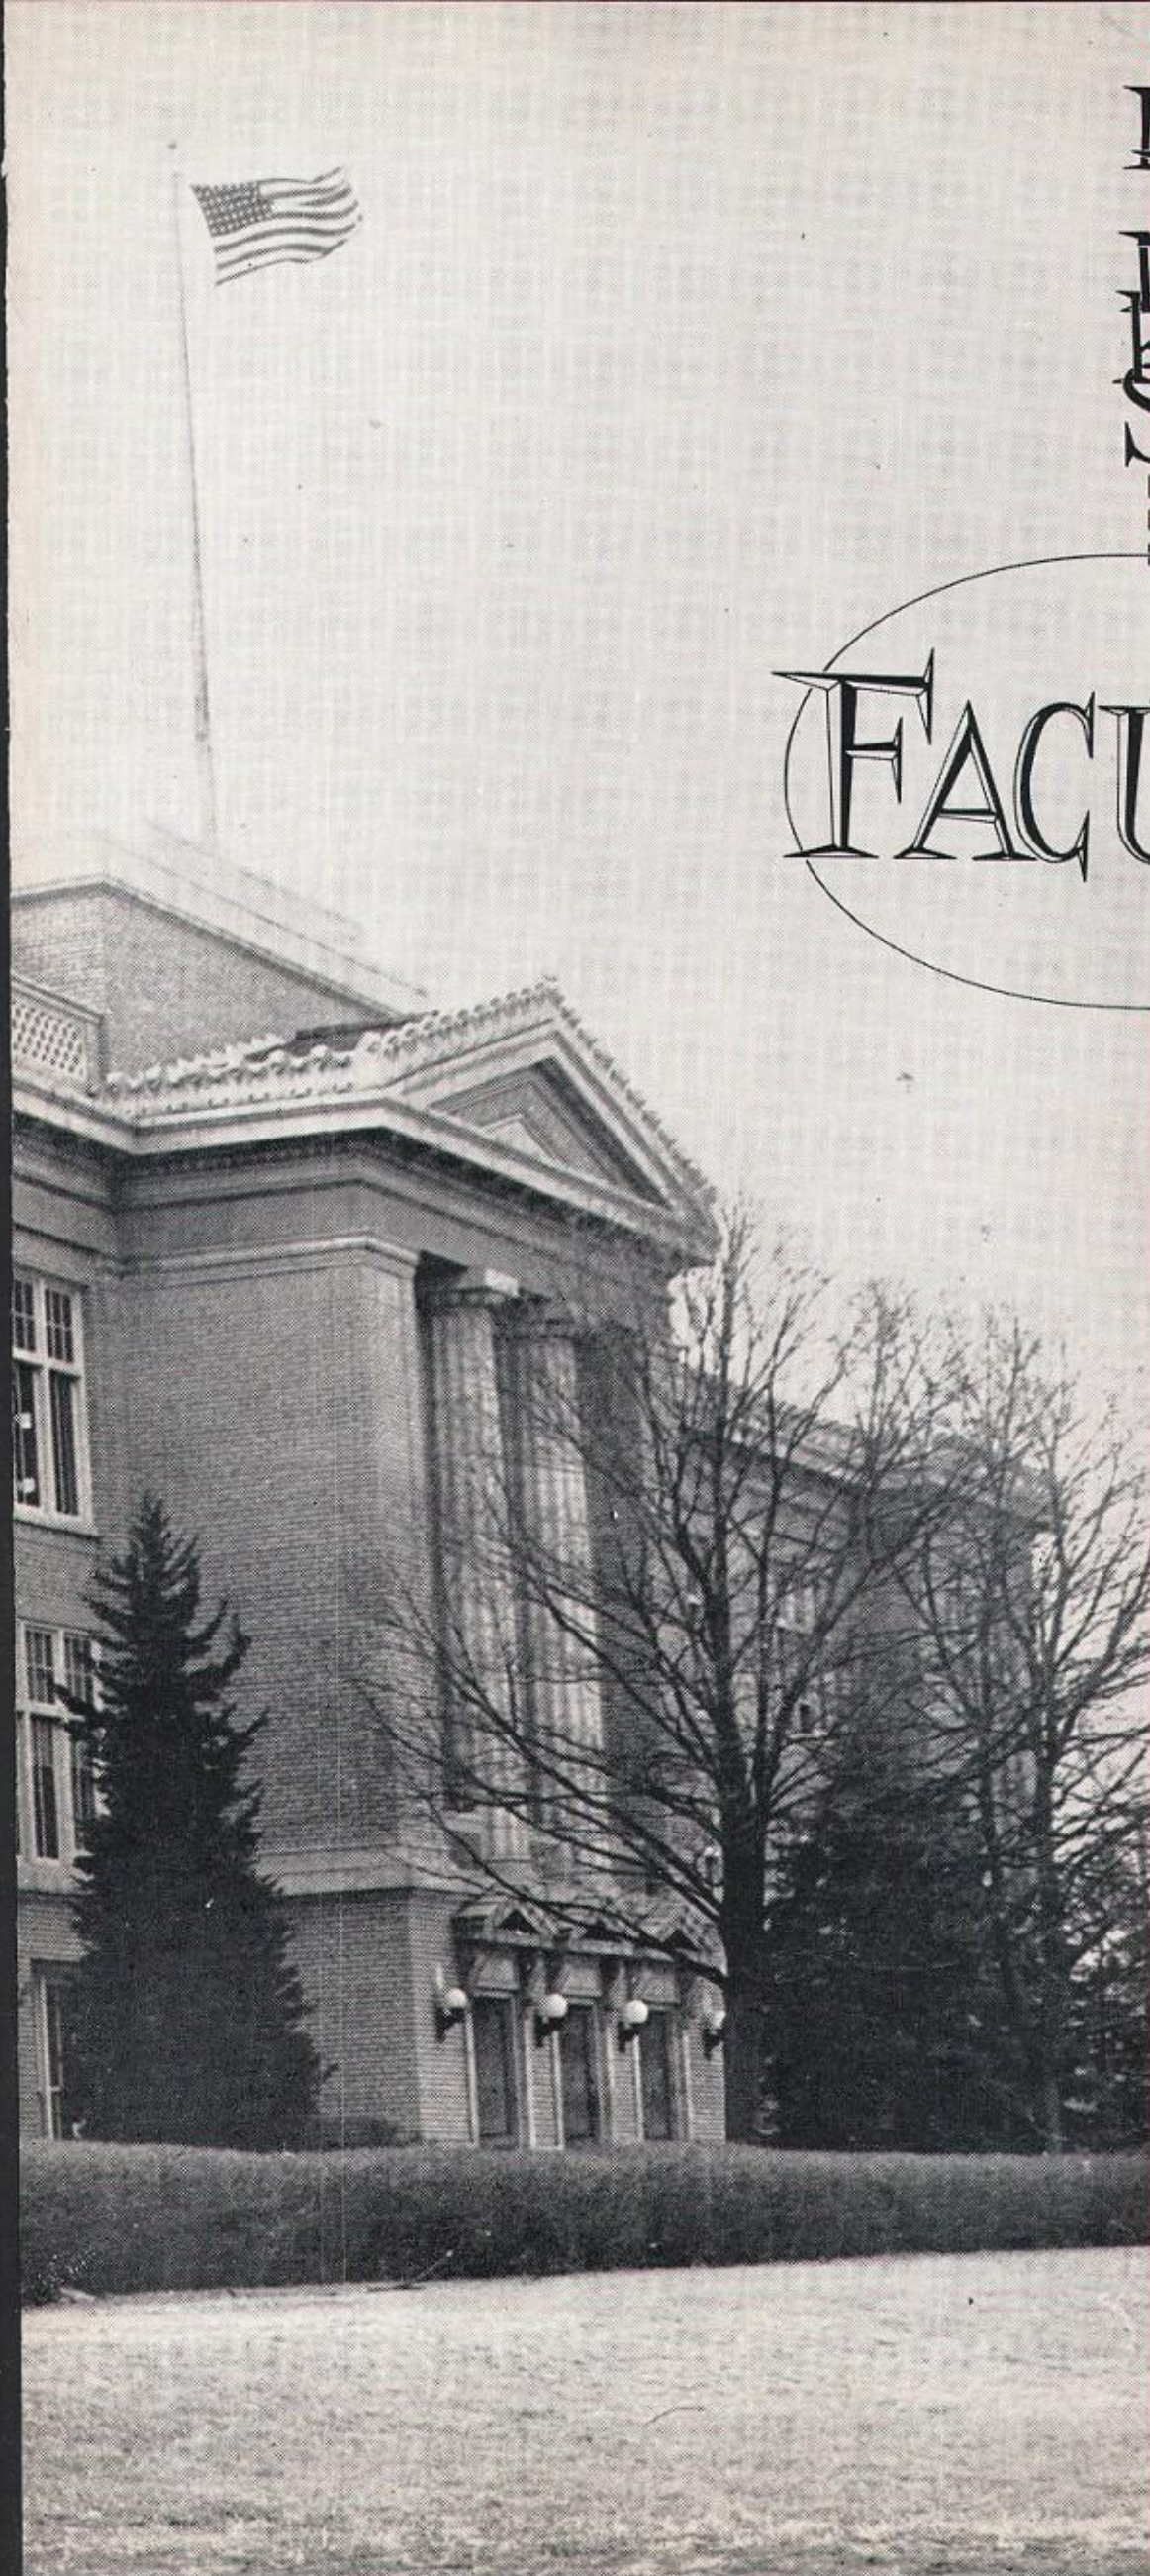

. . . And we couldn't be prouder. These words are significant of Lincoln High School: not only of the heroes of the football field and the basketball court, but of everyone—everyone who has attended Lincoln High, everyone who has become a part of its traditions and heritage, everyone in whom is instilled the infinite spirit of the Links.

As Lincoln High continues to grow, each student becomes fused as a link in the ever-lengthening chain of the Links.

To that great spirit of Lincoln High School, to the endless chain of the Links, we, the Links Board, dedicate this edition, The 1957 Links.

These are the Links . . .

FACULTY

The teachers of Lincoln High School—instilling in their students a knowledge of the language and the arts, ceaselessly molding today's youth into tomorrow's citizens . . .

. . . These are the Links.

DR. STEVEN N. WATKINS, Superintendent of Schools, checks over the activities schedule for the Lincoln school system.

Assisting with public school affairs are DAVID SELL, Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Business Affairs; DR. RUDOLPH FREDSTROM, Associate Superintendent of Schools; and RALPH PARK, Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Operation and Maintenance.

Lincoln Educational Program Broadened by School Board

Upon Dr. Steven N. Watkins, Superintendent of Schools, fall the duties of coordinating the curricula and activities of all the Lincoln Public Schools. He is aided by Dr. Rudolph Fredstrom, Associate Superintendent of Schools; David Sell, Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Business Affairs; and Ralph Park, Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Operation and Maintenance.

Six civic-minded individuals make up the Lincoln Board of Education this year. Through the efforts of this group, a new public schools activities building was made possible for the use of the Lincoln schools. This building, which was completed last summer, is located directly south of Lincoln High School.

BOARD OF EDUCATION: Seated: Glenn Yaussi, Warren T. Parker, Mrs. Roscoe Hill, Robert C. Venner. Standing: Dr. Paul Bancroft, Robert H. Ammon, Dr. Steven N. Watkins.

Higher School Standard Set by LHS Executives

The distinct quality of leadership is very evident in Lincoln High School's principal, William B. Bogar. He has spent seven years as principal, and during this period, with the help of student and faculty suggestions, has instituted many changes and improvements in the activities and curriculum programs at Lincoln High.

Lincoln High's assistant principals, Dorcas Weatherby, girls' adviser, and William Pfeiff, boys' counselor, can always be recognized by their friendliness and cordiality toward pupils. They are always available for advice on studies, personal problems, college plans, and scholarships.

These people have greatly aided the educational standard of Lincoln High School by raising it to a new high within the past year.

Taking an ever-increasing interest in Lincoln High's broadening activities program, WILLIAM B. BOGAR, principal, contributes greatly to morale and school spirit.

A friendly smile and a warm welcome greet anyone who steps into the office of MISS DORCAS WEATHERBY, assistant principal and girls' adviser.

Always available for advice or just a friendly chat is WILLIAM PFEIFF, who just completed his first year as assistant principal and boys' adviser.

If you're not in class, it's a sure thing that MISS MARGUERITE GUNDERMANN, attendance director, knows the reason why.

Keeping the main office running smoothly is a big job, and it is handled expertly by MRS. ALICE HIBBERT, office clerk, and MRS. ENID KAVAN, secretary to Mr. Bogar.

Carolyn Warner thoroughly agrees with MRS. RUBY EVANS, book clerk, that no student should be without The Little Black Book, Lincoln High School's new handbook.

Administrative details are handled smoothly by the clerks and secretaries, who aid executives, teachers, and pupils.

An efficient filing system enables MRS. MARTHA STROHM and MRS. MARIE PERRIN to find a pupil's permanent record quickly and easily.

MRS. DORIS McCARTY directs her attention to a reading discussion in her special education class.

ELDON HESKETT and MISS LOIS SCHWAB, sophomore class sponsors, discuss the ideas in the book, Planning Your Future, for use in their classes.

MRS. HELEN HULTBERG presents a discussion in one of her special education classes.

Counselors advise students in various fields; registration, program adjustment, social growth, vocational choice, and college preparation.

Chip Kuklin and Pamela Holloway receive friendly advice about college plans from WINDLE REEL, a sophomore class sponsor.

Senior sponsors HARRY KUKLIN and MRS. VIRGINIA ROBERTS discuss some of the activities of special interest to seniors.

MRS. ALICE UPDEGRAFT and GUILFORD BURNHAM, junior class advisers, consult the book, About You, in preparation for their classes.

MISS MARGARET O'ROURKE, English teacher and Mimes sponsor, finds information from a very reliable source, the dictionary.

MRS. RUTH GARTNER, Advocate and Links adviser, pauses to chat with Margaret Wertman, Links senior editor, and Dwight Meierhenry, first semester Advocate sports editor.

MAX LIEN, English instructor, seems to be answering a puzzling question for the students in one of his lively American literature classes.

English classes help to develop a thorough knowledge of the English language, with special emphasis on grammar, speech, and composition.

Larry Klein is learning all about movie operation from ALVA CAVETT, who teaches English and directs the visual education department.

MRS. MARYLOUISE ALEXANDER, English teacher and Mummies sponsor, discusses the Mummies' play, George Washington Slept Here, with Janice Hellweg, Mummies' president.

English teacher CLINTON NELSON, fits distinctly into his element surrounded by many books from his collection.

MISS FREDA SCHMELING consults a new textbook where she finds some different and interesting ideas to present to her classes.

MRS. JANET TERRY, who directs the senior and junior plays, reads a script of this year's senior play, Lo and Behold!

Reading and evaluating literature from many lands and from many eras is an important part of English classes.

MISS IRENE MARTIN, English department head, and MISS WANDA CRAWMER, English teacher, sponsor Writers Club. Here they discuss past issues of the Scribe.

MISS ESTHER MONTGOMERY cannot convince Jerry Sievers and John Gandara that there was really such a person as Paul Bunyan.

English teachers MRS. MARION GILBERT, Coed Counselor sponsor, and MISS MARY SIGLER, Joy Night sponsor, compare class notes and plans.

BUFORD GROSSCUP, Varsity baseball coach, and NEIL HAFEMEISTER, intramural coordinator, take time out from their busy schedules of social studies classes to greet our Links photographer.

Pointing out the importance of Lincoln's geographical location to one of his classes is history teacher DARRELL GRELL, who also coaches the sophomore football team.

"Reading adds to your knowledge in every way," says MRS. RUTH PINNEY, history teacher, as she relaxes with a new book.

The study of social sciences leads to a better understanding of citizenship in our American democracy and our world community.

A discussion of voting in a current magazine draws the attention of history teachers MRS. RUTH SCHWARZ, who sponsors Red Cross Council, and MISS FLORENCE JENKINS, Student Council adviser.

Teaching a full schedule of social studies classes and sponsoring County Day keeps a teacher busy, as MISS WILHELMINA JOHNSON can tell you.

Distributing sweatshirts to trackmen Bill Johnston and Bill Swanson is history teacher and Varsity track coach HAROLD SCOTT.

Taking a break from his busy schedule is history teacher RICHARD BEECHNER, who coaches Lincoln High's golf team.

Knowledge acquired in these fields confirms our personal relationship to the events of the past and the challenges of the future.

History teacher MRS. IRMA COOMBS enters the gym for another practice session with the cheerleaders, whom she sponsors.

By adding unusual facts and data, MISS CARRIE ROBERTS, social studies department head, brings interest and variety into her classes.

MRS. MABLE SWARD, library clerk, and MISS EMMA SNYDER, librarian, find an interesting news article in one of the many newspapers in the Lincoln High library.

MISS FRANCES BUELL and DONOVAN LUEDKE know that much valuable mathematical knowledge can be gained from a study of prisms.

MISS GRACE McMAHON shows the spherical status of the world in one of her interesting geometry classes.

Math teachers MISS RUTH HALL, who heads the Mathematics Department, and MISS EDITH ELLIS, chairman of the E.C.A. Committee, greet our Links photographer with friendly smiles.

The Mathematics Teacher provides new and interesting ideas for the classes of MRS. LILLIAN THOMPSON and MRS. LAVINA DVORAK.

Knowledge of mathematics is just as essential to everyday living as it is to highly specialized fields of work.

MISS MILDRED WAIDE, math teacher and business adviser for all school publications, discusses the selling of ads with Deanne Duis and Jim Meisinger, Advocate and Links business managers.

"Closed Corridor!" LYLE WEYAND, math teacher and Varsity basketball coach, reprimands Junior Lambert for entering a "forbidden area."

R. W. HOWLAND, science teacher, reveals the intricacies of a new camera to one of his photography classes.

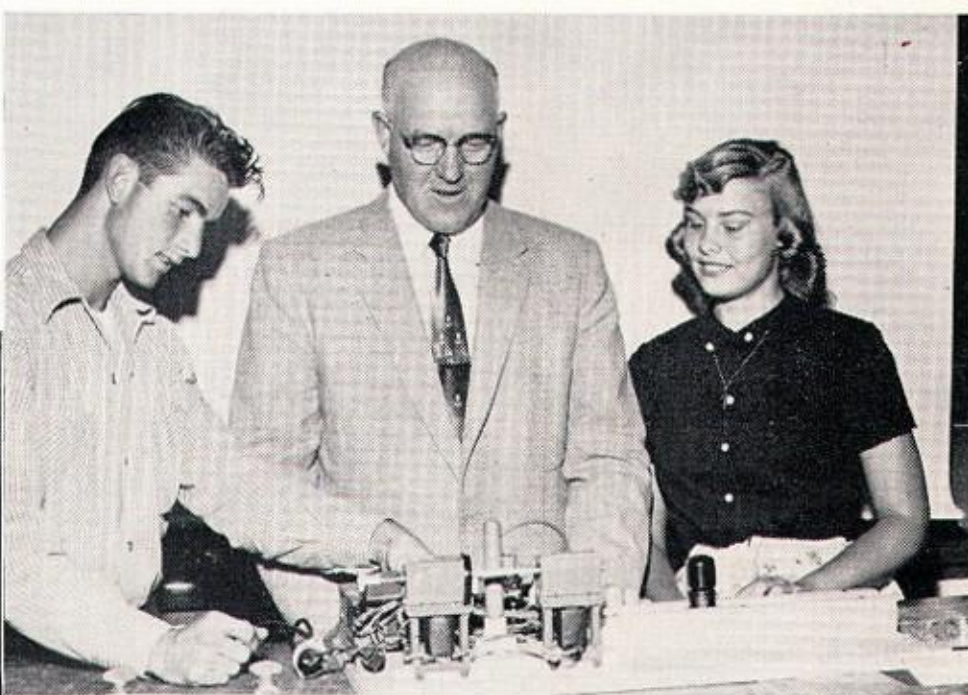

Adjusting a microscope for surveillance by one of her classes is MISS LUCY GEIGER, science instructor.

MRS. GLADYS TEMPLE, science teacher, knows that without proper care, plants cannot flourish properly.

Training in scientific fields is of value to everyone in developing a comprehension of both everyday happenings and unusual occurrences.

Future scientific geniuses may owe their knowledge of physiology and chemistry to CARL MANTHEY and LEROY COLSON, science instructors.

Glen Kempf and Nancy Tally seem fascinated by the electric eye counter that JULIUS D. YOUNG explains to them.

JAMES SOMMERS, science teacher, also assumes the position of backfield coach for Lincoln High's football team.

Showing one of the many Spanish souvenirs which add interest to her classes is MISS TERESINA DANESE, Spanish teacher and Usherette sponsor.

Judy Ann Zadina learns the origin of these comedy and tragedy masks from Latin teacher MISS LORRAINE STRASHEIM, who is also a Pepper sponsor.

By gaining skill in foreign languages, a pupil may communicate with people of many countries and cultures.

Some of us may not be able to translate the writing on this poster, but it's a sure thing that MISS VALERIA BONNELL, German teacher, knows what it means.

MISS ELIZABETH GRONE points out some of France's geographical highlights in one of her interesting French classes.

Discussing some of the latest artistic trends are art instructors MRS. SHIRLEY MARTIN and DONALD BYORTH, who also sponsor Art Club.

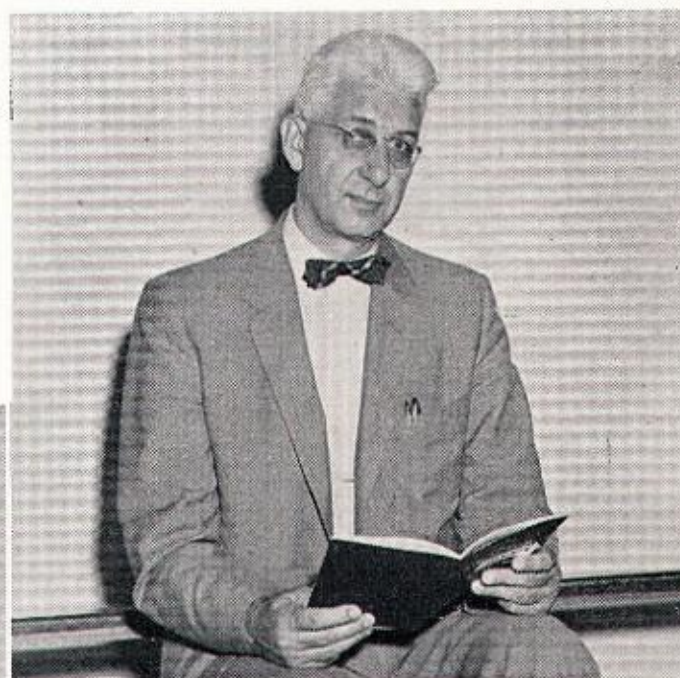

Through training in music and art, pupils become acquainted with and learn to appreciate the fine arts.

Trumpet player Ruthie Miller seems to be enjoying a musical joke with LYLE WELCH, orchestra and band director.

Under the direction of MISS DOROTHEA GORE, the girls' glees and octet present many outstanding performances.

IVAN CALDWELL, music instructor, directs the Apollo Choir, the boys octet and the boys' glees.

Relaxing after a rehearsal with the Aeolian Choir, which he directs, is HUGH RANGELER, who also has charge of the Lincoln Boys Choir.

MISS HELEN HAGENSICK and MISS EULALIE BRATCHER discuss the results of a nation-wide shorthand test which was given in their shorthand classes.

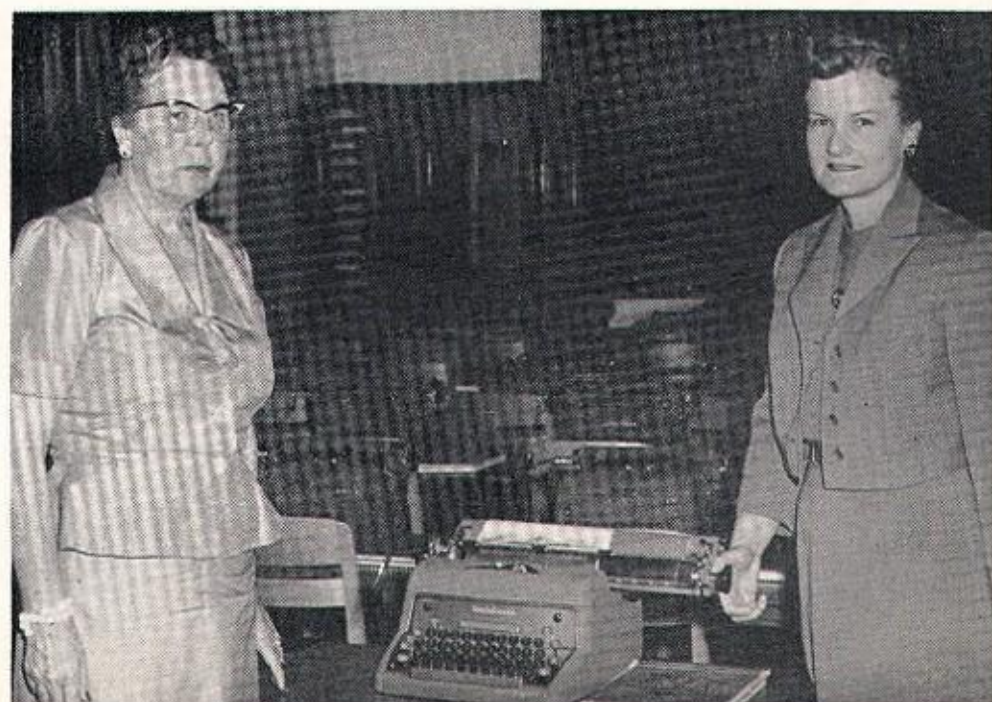

Pausing in preparing assignments for their typing classes are MISS BETTY HECKMAN, who sponsors Aqualinks, and MRS. LEILA HUGHES, a Pepper sponsor.

Home economics and commercial teachers provide training for future work in the home or in any career.

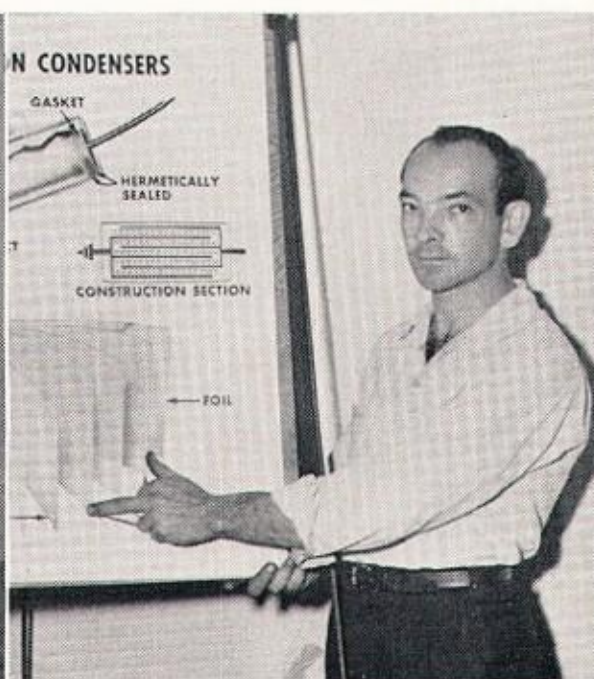

Always looking out for new recipes, MRS. GWENDOLYN COOPER and MISS MILDRED KEMP find something delicious for the cooking classes to prepare.

Two commercial teachers, MISS ESTHER LEFLER, who is head of the business department, and MRS. KATHERINE STEWART, head of the auditing committee, inspect a new typewriter.

Preparing to present a new topic to his drafting classes, ARVID JOHNSON finds information in a current magazine.

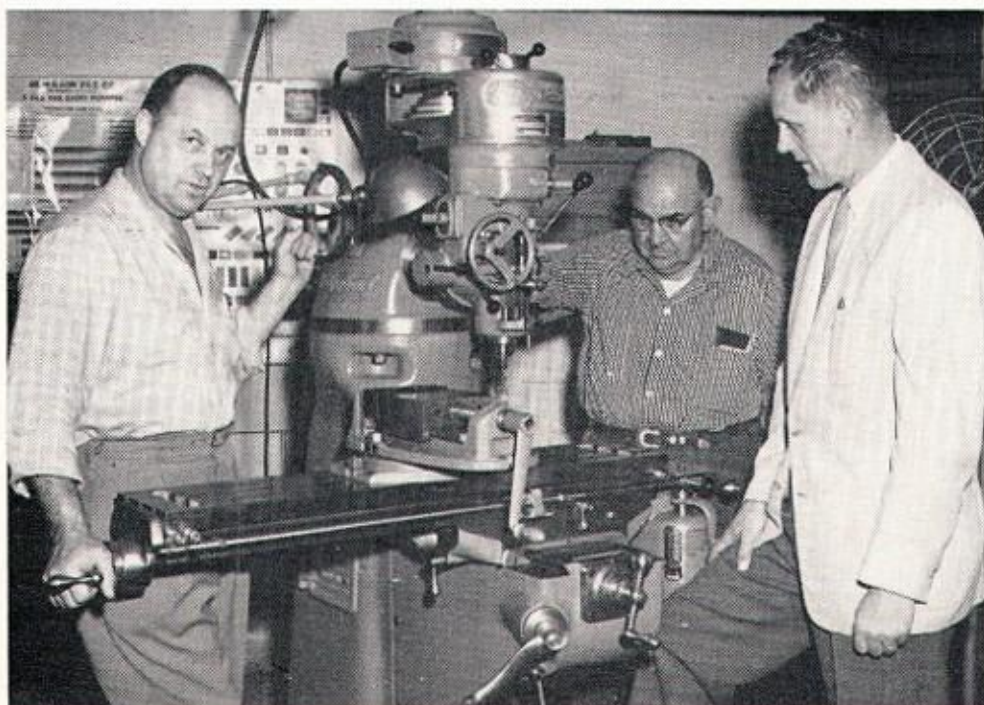

ALBERT LAMERE, auto shop teacher, seems certain that anyone can understand the operation of an ignition condenser.

Head football coach ED SCHWARTZKOPF explains a blueprint layout to Gale Riley, a pupil in his industrial crafts class.

Practical knowledge and skills necessary to future training are the results of the varied efforts of the shop teachers.

New in the machine shop this year is the Bridgeport vertical mill, here being inspected by CLAUDE WINGROVE, CLARENCE EVANS, and CHESTER GAUSMAN, shop teachers.

A comprehensive background of automobile operation and repair can be acquired in the classes of ROBERT HARRINGTON, auto shop instructor.

Physical education instructors PHIL SPRAGUE, gymnastics coach, and HAROLD GILLILAND, wrestling coach, enjoy an amusing story between their classes.

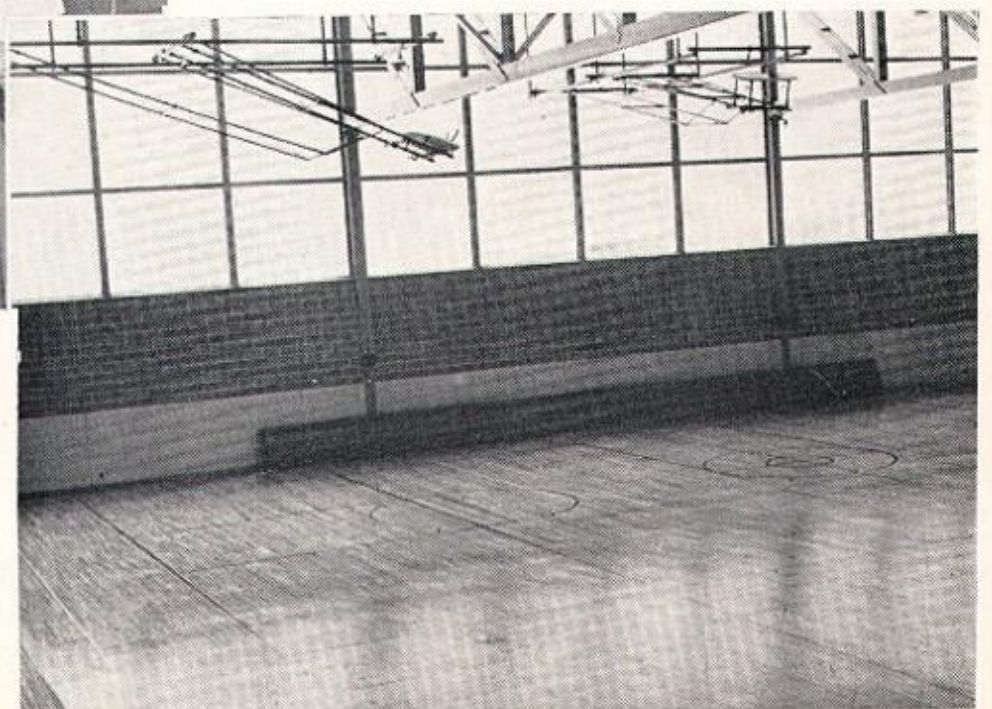

MRS. ALICE YOUNGSCAP, school nurse, assures Barbara Cade that if she can read this eye chart, she can read almost anything.

Qualities of sportsmanship, poise and health are produced through basic training in physical and health education and by participation in athletics.

MISS HELEN MILLER, girls' physical education teacher, gives Harriet Strickland some pointers in handling some new gym equipment.

For the first time, Lincoln High's physical education classes were able to make use of this large, modern gym in the new Public Schools Activities Building.

CUSTODIANS: Bottom Row: Mrs. Pickering, Mrs. Crook, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Ashford, Mrs. Nelson. Row 2: Sypherd, Fredell, Gates, Kilkoyn, Johnson, Hosic, Waniska, Flanagan, Childs, Luehr.

Through the efforts of the cafeteria staff and the custodians, students are given well prepared food; and the school is kept clean and attractive.

CAFETERIA STAFF: Bottom Row: Mrs. Heckman, Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Round, Mrs. Kargo. Row 2: Mrs. Winkler, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Hobson, Mrs. Snowden, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Lott. Row 3: Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. Jensen, Mrs. Lamb, Mrs. London, Mrs. Hoxie, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Lange, Mrs. Farley, Mrs. Haas, Mrs. Schuelke.

Carol Vermaas

Paul Kreiss

Paul Kreiss and Carol Vermaas with identical scholastic averages of 1.16 each received a Lincoln High Scholarship Key, symbol of superior achievement. This is presented to the senior maintaining the highest grade average.

Paul is also the winner of the Regents' Scholarship. His extra-curricular interests included International Club, Science Club, Mummers, Joy Night.

Carol, in addition to being scholastically superior, listed among her many activities Cheer Leader, Peppers, Aqualinks, Joy Night, Clef Club, GAA.

Regents' Scholarship alternates include: Phyllis Brunkow, Gale Cottingham, Kate Haggie, John Hoerner, Mary Jane Koch, Harriet Strickland, Sue Thorpe, Yvonne Umland, Brad Wright.

Receive Color Day Honors Top Lincoln High Seniors

Jose Gacusana, recipient of the Harry Sidney Dobbins Award, was chosen for achievement in athletics, scholarship and citizenship. This award is presented annually by Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Dobbins in memory of their son. Jose earned two letters in football, three in track and three in swimming. He has been state high school champion in the 50-yard free style for the past three years.

Harriet Strickland, GAA Award winner, has maintained an enviable record both scholastically and in the field of girls' athletics where she has been outstanding in most of the sports offered. An average of 1.53 places her in the upper three per cent of the class. Harriet received 12 emblems and 18 letters in three years of GAA participation. She served the organization as president in her senior year.

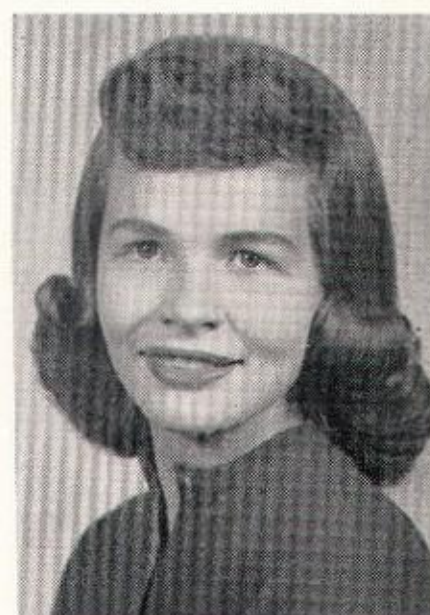

Janet TeSelle has been awarded the Harold C. Mardis Scholarship, established to honor a former Lincoln High principal. Janet, with an average of 1.71, is in the upper ten percent of the class. She has participated in numerous activities including Coed Counselors, Joy Night, International Club, Peppers.

Class of 1957 Recalls Three Memorable Years

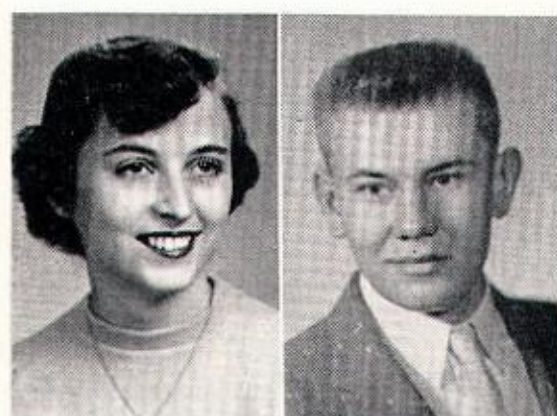

During these years at Lincoln High, we, the Class of 1957, have worked hard and accomplished great things. Teachers have diligently helped us achieve our goals of honor roll, National Honor Society, and scholarships. We have studied hard for tests, sweated over senior themes and those final tests, and have participated in school activities.

As we graduate and look into the future we must put into practice all these things we have learned. Truly we have grasped the spirit of the Links and now we must not let go.

During the halftime of the Lincoln High - Lincoln Northeast football game, Jeanne Carrier was crowned homecoming queen. Her attendants were Sherry Turner, Sharon Ellsworth, Pat Gettman, and Judy Lutz.

Sports Queens Climax Fall, Winter Seasons

Bev Lind reigned as winter sports queen at the annual winter sports banquet. She was nominated by the swimming team, and her attendants were Sally Purviance, Judy Lutz, and Sharon Ellsworth.

After the crowning and homecoming half-time festivities, Queen Jeanne was escorted from the oval in a convertible.

Jim Cadwallader is warmly welcomed home by Dave Calhoun, Johnny Cox, Jim Meisinger, and Lee Liming after spending a summer in Sweden.

Memories of Italy are recalled by Kate Haggie as she prepares some spaghetti for American Field Service students Judy Hanneman, Dimitris Veronis, Bill Orwig, Jim Cadwallader, and Karin Jungtorp.

The Omaha World-Herald award to the Advocate is discussed by Pat Porter, Barbara Barker, and Margaret Wertman, N.H.S.P.A. award winners.

Seniors Climax Three

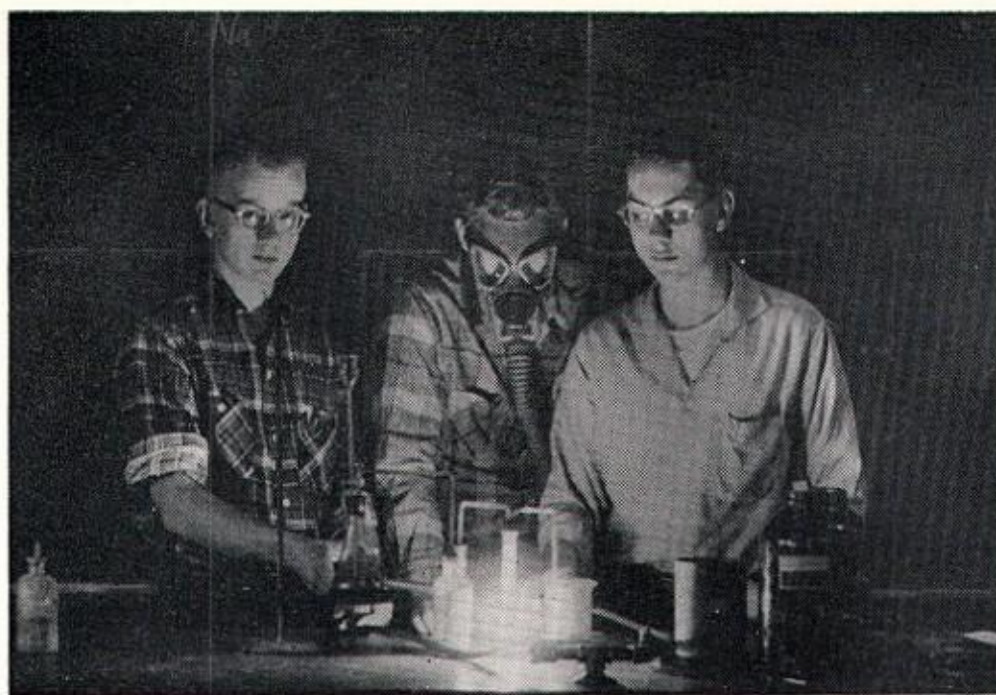

It's all behind us now: the strangling fear on the first day of our sophomore year at Lincoln High; the confusion of trying to find a "hidden" fourth floor room; the fun of campaigning for that special office on County Day; the intangible Lincoln High spirit that aroused itself in us as we cheered the Links through victory and defeat; the eager awaiting for the revealing of American Field Service students, homecoming

Jack Houchen is glad that he is first in line to receive his 1957 Links from Jim Meisinger, Links business manager.

Senior class officers, Jim Pinkerton, treasurer; Mike Burke, president; Sandra Catron and Earl Oltman, co-secretaries; and John Elliott, vice-president, find past yearbooks quite amusing.

Brad Wright admits that a gas mask isn't really necessary as he, Frank Gillen, and Paul Kreiss peer through the eerie glow of their latest chemistry experiment.

Adding their names to a Student Council petition to retain Lincoln High School's name are Janet TeSelle and Joe Gacusana.

Unforgettable Years

queen, National Honor Society members, and scholarship winners; and finally, the sadness of Color Day, Baccalaureate, and graduation, as three unforgettable years at Lincoln High are ended.

These are our memories of Lincoln High School; these, and many, many more are recalled as each of us becomes a link in the lengthy and ever-growing chain of the Links.

Ann Billmyer can add nothing but shade to the situation as Betty Blore attempts to make Gary Hill's Hobo Day attire a bit more informal.

Buckles, baggy-shag sweaters, and button-down shirts everywhere show the influence of the Ivy League on Jim Pinkerton, Jim Eno, Dick Spaedt, and Jim Cadwallader.

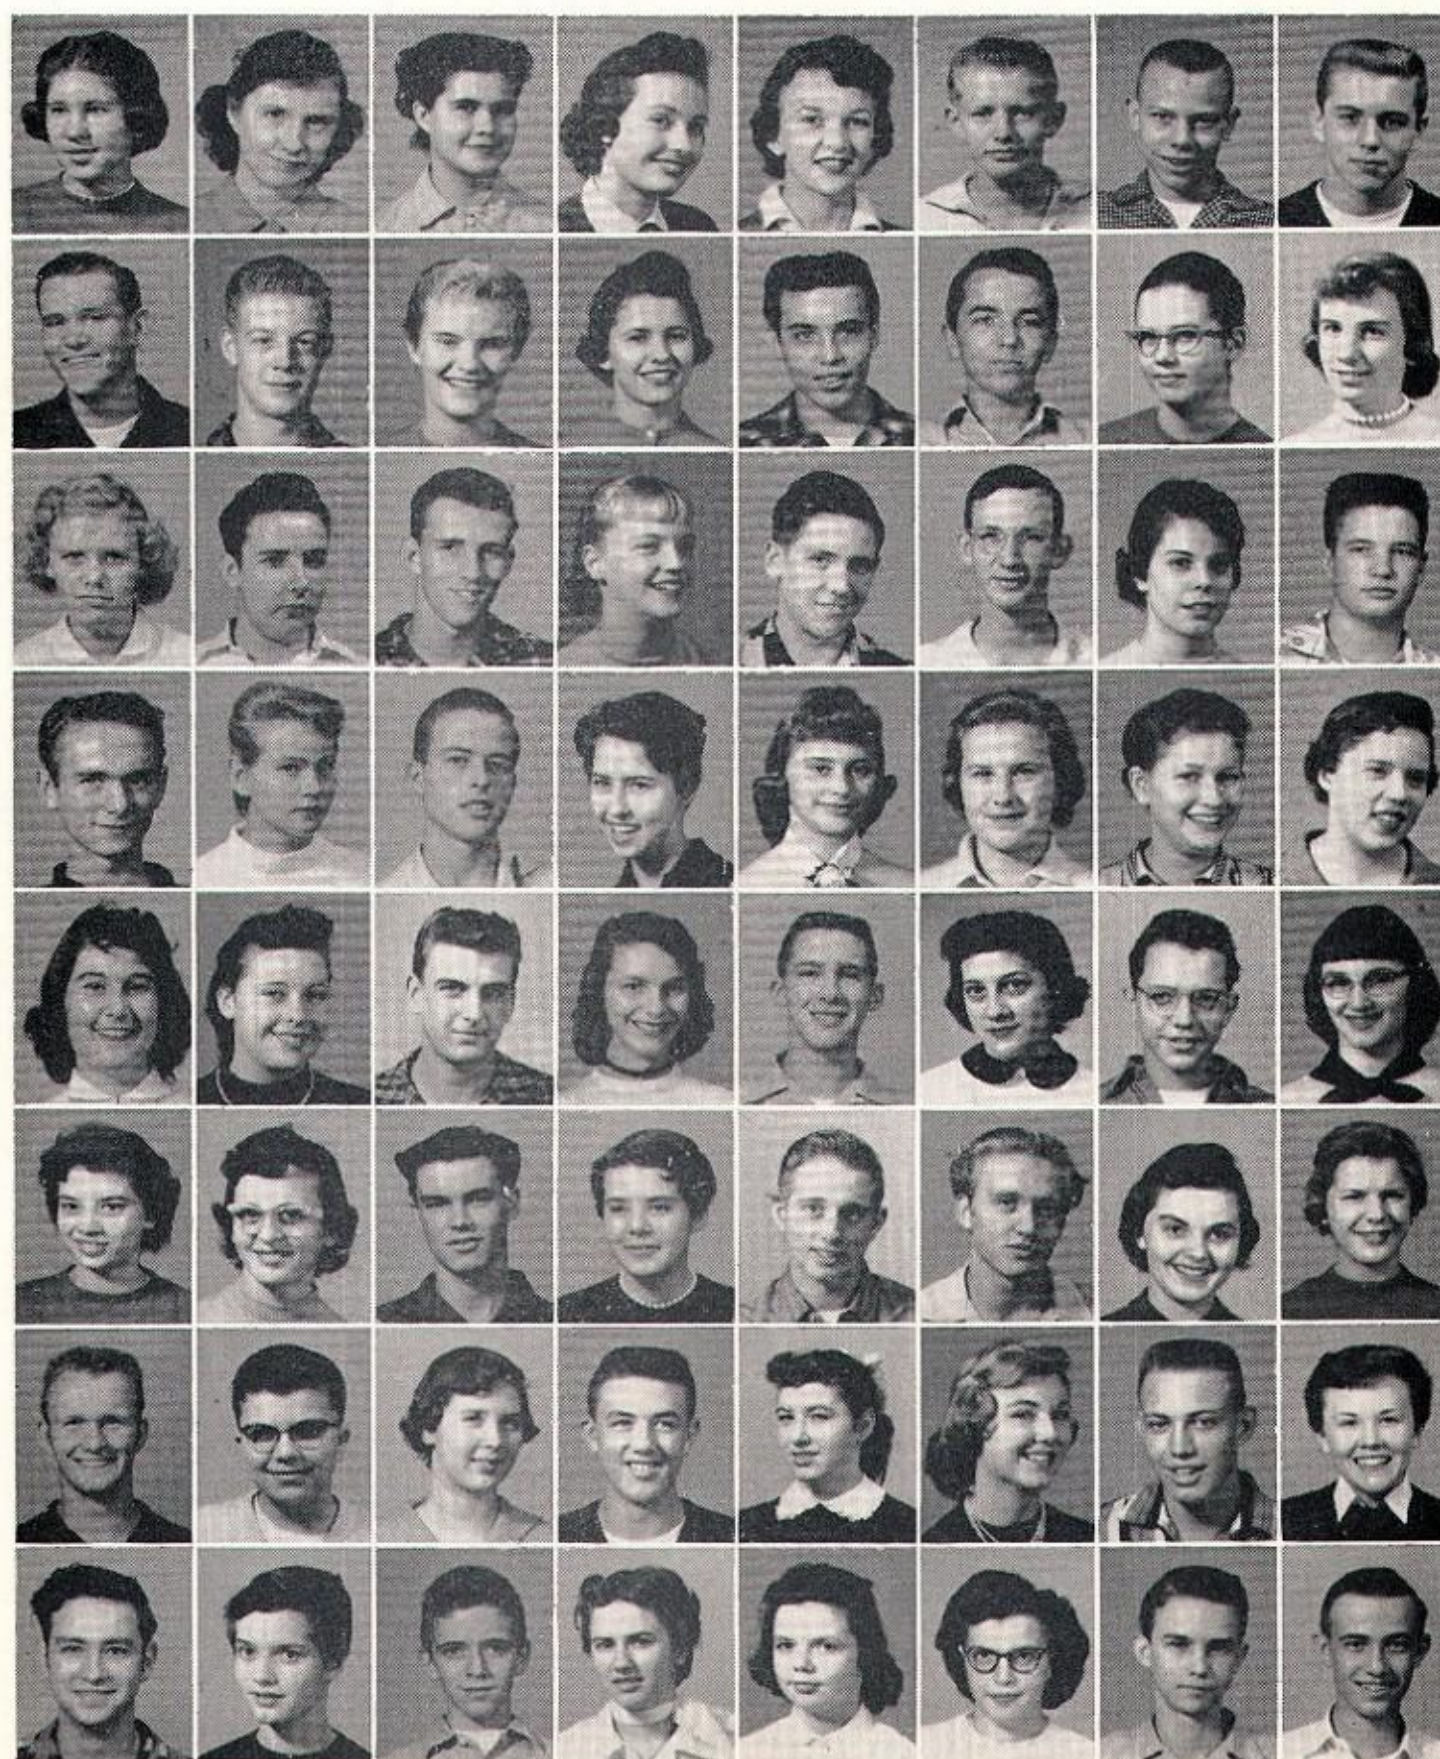

"Ouch! That hurts!" This is quite evident in Dotty Ritchey's expression as she receives her shot of polio vaccine.

Junior Year Is Filled With Fun, Excitement, And Memories for All

ACTIVITIES

The activities—an ever-broadening program, expanding to meet the needs and attentions of Lincoln High's students by extending into more varied fields of interest...

It's time for another home game, and Student Council members Bill Lehman, Brian Binning, Sharon Ellsworth, Pat Bogar, and Sharon Witt prepare to sell programs.

LHS Projects Aided By Student Council

Lincoln High School is still Lincoln High—and this is due largely to the efforts of the Student Council. When a change in the school name was proposed, the council stepped in, began circulating petitions, searching old files and records for information on the game and history, canvassing votes from parents, Lincoln citizens, and students, and members represented Lincoln High at Board of Education hearings concerning the name change. Because of the council's action, no alteration was made in Lincoln High's name. This is an example of only one of the council's activities.

Meeting every Tuesday and Thursday, members planned the Football Banquet and a dance honoring spring sports. They also sold football and basketball programs at all home games and, in the spring, sold Lincoln High pens and pencils. Money taken in from these projects went toward the Links Hi-Spot, the new student lounge, which was made possible through Student Council efforts.

The twenty-four council members are selected each spring by the student body. It is their duty to act as the student governing body.

Last summer, Jeanne Carrier and Lee Liming attended National Student Council Camp at Camp Cheley, Colorado. They returned with suggestions for improving student government and new ideas for Student Council projects.

Reps Further LHS Projects, Charity Drives

When it is time for the real work to be done, the school calls on the home room Representatives and Alternates. They collect money for all drives, such as Community Chest, Red Cross, and the March of Dimes. They also collect class dues. An Alternate is elected to help the Representative or replace him if necessary.

Neil Unterseher and Nancy Stefanisin compare posters as they prepare to start their County Day campaign.

Marilyn Epp, Judy Christensen, and Brenda Davidson are convinced that the only way to win the County Day election is by distributing campaign badges.

County Day Is New Experience for Juniors

Campaign posters and signs hanging on Lincoln High walls, and numerous handbills being passed out reveal that once again County Day is drawing near. The campaigns for office lead up to primary and general elections which determine the students chosen as representatives for the annual County Government Day held at the County Courthouse in December.

This activity is open to all juniors meeting certain qualifications, and there are fifteen offices to be held, of which eleven are elective and four are appointive.

Obtaining a better understanding of how government operates is the main purpose of County Day, which begins with a tour, and includes a hotel luncheon, a study of each individual's elected office, and a general group meeting.

Advocate Brings Student

Lincoln High School's bi-weekly newspaper, the Advocate, entered its sixty-second year of publication, under the auspices of Mrs. Ruth Gartner.

The Advocate covered all newsworthy events and happenings around school. Two staffs, each serving one semester, carried out publication duties.

Members of the first semester staff attended the Nebraska High School Press Association Convention at the University of Nebraska in November. Students took part in varied panel discussions and competitive contests.

Strange facts are often found in old Advocate issues, as Deanne Duis, Herb Probasco, Sally Mosher, Mimi Caldwell, Joanna Rogers, and Barbara Carey discover.

Noel Copeland types a last-minute news item as Donna Jackson, Sony Martin, and Kay Beckman help him meet his deadline.

An amusing item in an Advocate attracts the attention of Judy West, Ann Marie Fisher, Brian Binning, and Pat Gettman.

i-Weekly News

Again this year, the Advocate was presented the World-Herald award for the outstanding printed newspaper in a large Nebraska high school.

The National Scholastic Press Association Convention held last August in Ann Arbor, Michigan, was the incentive for several staff members, they were initiated into Quill and Scroll, international journalism society for high school journalists.

After concluding their staff responsibilities, members were initiated into Quill and Scroll, international journalism society for high school journalists.

The Advocate has just gone to press, and Barbara Tanner, Phyllis Wertman, Bob Hill, Janet TeSelle, and Herb Probasco take time to relax.

Ann McIntyre, Kay Keller, and Doug Keill get the latest word on advertising space in this Advocate issue from Stan Icen.

Some interesting information about Lincoln High is discovered by Dave Calhoun, Sherry Turner, Susan Stump, and Jerry Hahn.

Spirits Haunt Senior Play "Lo and Behold"

Sharing his home with ghosts and the love troubles of his living friends were the problems of wealthy Milo Alcott in the Senior Play, Lo and Behold! Alcott, a Nobel Prize winner with a bad heart, ate a sumptuous meal and died happy, only to find that his home, which was to be a sanctuary for his soul, was inhabited by the ghosts of an Indian maiden, a southern belle, and a piano composer. An interesting love triangle was formed by a bookmaker, Alcott's cook, and Alcott's doctor, but in the end, agreements were made among both the living and the ghosts.

"Is it dead or alive?" This seems to be the puzzling question confronting student directors Hans Leuschner and Gary Hill.

Bookie Jackie McDougal (Dave Calhoun) has turned the tide on Dr. Robert Dorsey (Jim Cadwallader) and Daisy Durdle (Pat Myers).

Katie, the cook (Judy Blackwell, second from left), sees that unexpected visitors Mr. Duffy (Gordon Young), Mr. Dodge (Doug Keill), Mrs. Waughop (Jo Couch), and the conductor (Ed Winchester) are comfortable.

Heading for the World's Fair are Esther (Charlotte Douglas), Fred Gregory (Bob Hill), Rose (Angela Long), John Shepard (Brian Binning), Lucille Pentard (Pat Beckman), Lon (Mark Sorensen), and Ida Boothby (Marilyn Winter).

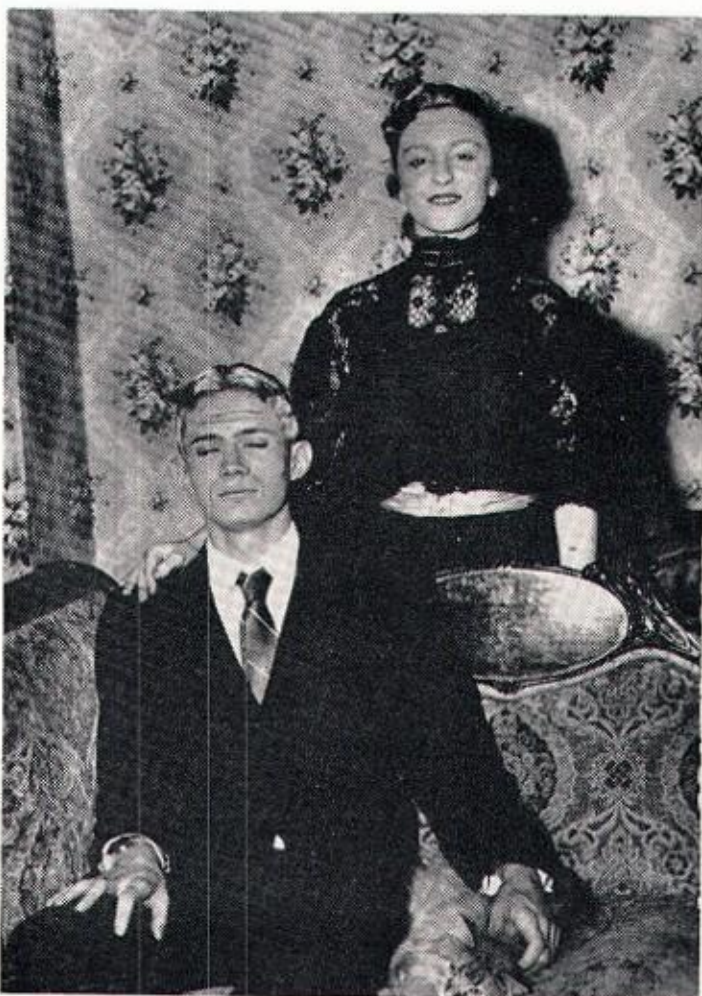

Juniors Present "Meet Me in St. Louis"

After the final curtain had been rung down, the juniors decided that their class play, Meet Me in St. Louis, had been a tremendous success.

The play dealt with the problems of Mr. Smith, a St. Louis father who received an offer of a better-paying job in another city. His four daughters, Agnes, Esther, Rose, and Tootie, and his son, Lon, took desperate measures to keep from leaving St. Louis, and their actions helped to fire their father from his job.

Romantic tangles added to the story's gaiety, and after all sorts of family pranks, the story ended as Mr. Smith was rehired.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith (John Donaldson and Penny Penton) pose for their portrait.

Grandpa Propater (Jim Dick) tells Agnes (Jane Connealy) and Tootie (Jan Foltz) of his many riches.

"But you don't understand!" says Nina (Pat Myers) to Jack (Gary Christiansen) as she tries to explain a mistaken impression to him.

"Of course you can be a boy!" Nina (Pat Myers) is surprised to hear this from Suzette (Mimi Caldwell) and Pietro (Art Hughes).

Aeolian Choir Presents Tale of Confused

A trip to Bermuda on the yacht of wealthy Mrs. Van Dare brings complications for many people in the Aeolian Choir's presentation of The Firefly, an opera by Rudolph Friml and Otto Harbach.

Jack, the fiance of Mrs. Van Dare's niece, Geraldine, is captivated by the smile of Nina, an Italian street singer, just before the ship sails. But Geraldine's maid and Thurston, the valet of Jack's uncle, help Nina disguise herself as a cabin boy, and she becomes a part of the ship's company.

At the Van Dare home in Bermuda, Herr Franz, a choirmaster friend of the family, becomes enraptured by Nina's voice, and, thinking her to be a cabin boy, decides to adopt her. But when the New York police report that the cabin boy is a notorious pickpocket, Tony Colombo, Nina is forced to reveal her true identity as the "Firefly" singer, and Jack's love for her is rekindled.

"I can make you rich!" says Herr Franz (Jim Pinkerton) to Nina (Pat Myers), as Pietro (Art Hughes), Suzette (Mimi Caldwell), Thurston (Jim Cadwallader), Geraldine (Kay Beckman), Mrs. Van Dare (Sue Thorpe), Sybil (Mary Jane Koch), and Jenkins (Dave Calhoun) look on.

"Don't let them send me away," pleads Nina (Pat Myers) of Herr Franz (Jim Pinkerton). Mrs. Van Dare (Sue Thorpe) and Jenkins (Dave Calhoun) look on.

"May I present Geraldine Van Dare?" Thurston (Jim Cadwallader) is very glad to meet Geraldine (Kay Beckman) as Sybil (Mary Jane Koch) introduces them.

Three years later, at a party given by Mrs. Van Dare for Geraldine and Jack, everyone is surprised to learn that the party's world famous guest singer is none other than Nina. Jack's uncle, who has just returned from Europe, renews a previous love affair with Geraldine, Jack once again falls in love with the "Firefly," and everyone joins in a happy conclusion.

Members of the Aeolian Choir relax a moment during their rehearsal of The Firefly.

An "August Heat Wave" hits as Brenda Allacher, Bruce Condon, Dick Welch, John Mills, Johnny Cox, and Dwight Meierhenry rock through "Too Much" and "Shake, Rattle and Roll."

Karen Hanson, Judy Hanneman, Deanne Duis, Marlene Barrett, Kathy Fisk, Bonnie Beckmann, and Janet Freese, summer breezes, and Susan Morgan, Laurie Blende, Sharon Ellsworth, Pat Myers, Ann McIntyre, and Sarah Colby, sunbeams, all appear in "Jour d' Été."

Susie Heggen, Barbara Ilg, Diane Geier, Sandy Greeness, Mary Margaret Holtmeier, Bonnie Bush, Julie Dalling, and Barbara Phillips (seated), and Margaret Borner, Janice Hoyer, Marty Davey, Lorraine Bullock, Shirley Schmidt, Nancy Stefanisin, Sharon Anderson, and Charlotte Douglas (standing), bring back memories of the roaring twenties to Mary Muck in "Happy New Year."

Television commercials for the "July Sales" are realistically dramatized by John Thompson, Larry Haack, Herb Probasco, Noel Copeland, Bill Johnston, and Bill Arledge.

Joy Night Takes Audiences

The four seasons and various holidays were represented in this year's production of Joy Night, as it opened with the theme, "All Through the Year."

The Boys Glee Club, in the show opener, recalled the football spirit of "September Daze."

Senior girls portrayed a group of disreputable males whose girls could not "grow

The Boys Octet, in "Dial AD-1957," decided that all through the year, much of their time was spent telephoning girls.

The Junior Girls Glee Club closed the show with a musical presentation of "Fair and Warmer."

Neil Unterseher (center) acts as Joy Night master of ceremonies, while Johnny Cox and Jim Cadwallader coordinate the show by playing the organ and piano between acts.

Crews are necessary in any production, and Joy Night is no exception. These students judge tryouts, design scenery, secure properties, man lights, and help to direct the show.

Assemblies, Vespers Filled With Musical

Music, music, and more music rings throughout every third and fourth periods when the Aeolian and Apollo Choirs meet in Room 326.

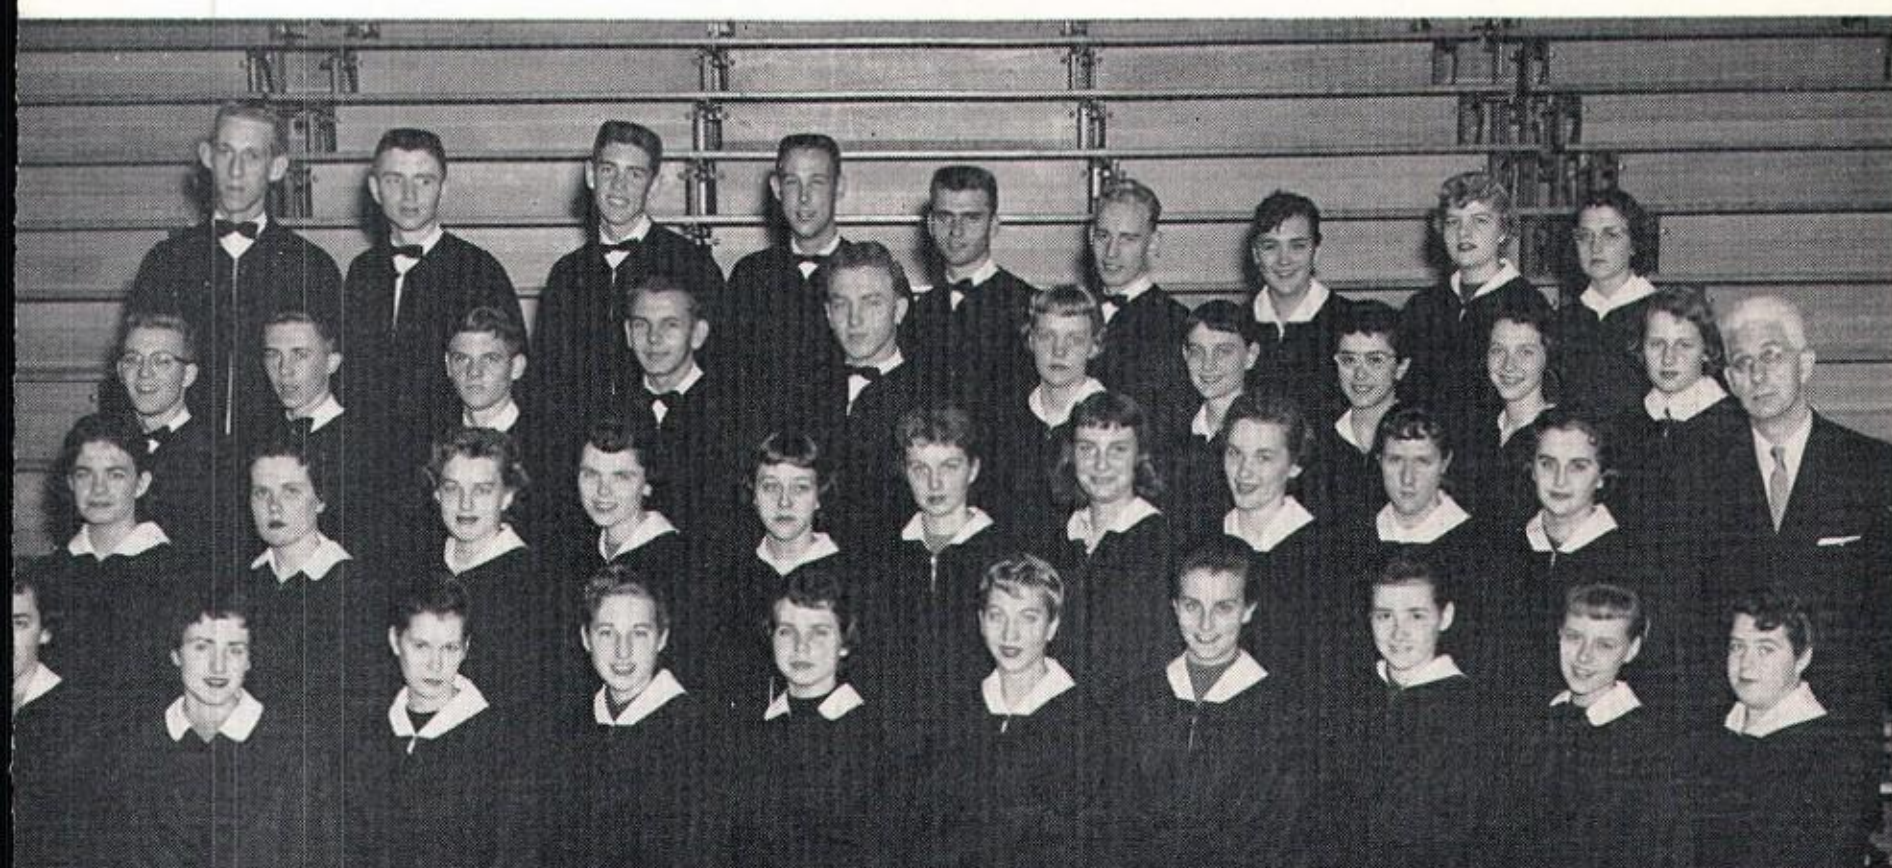

The Aeolian Choir, directed by Hugh Rangeler, performed at Teachers' Convention, and at the annual Kiwanis Christmas dinner, while the Apollo Choir, directed by Ivan Caldwell, joined with the Aeolian Choir to give the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter assemblies, and the Christmas vesper.

Musical numbers of all types were given

Outstanding Performances Made by Girls Glee

Eighty harmonious voices blended together to make one of the best years for the Junior Girls Glee. This group proved its ability many times throughout the school year.

The November and Christmas Vespers, which the glee helped in presenting, will be long remembered, as well as Joy Night, which would not have been the same without the Junior Girls Glee act, "Fair and Warmer," to end it.

The busy glee also found time to share their talents with many junior high schools in the spring.

Boys Glee, Octets Provide More Music at LHS

Sophomore and junior boys with a talent for singing were members of this year's Boys Glee, under the direction of Ivan Caldwell. In addition to gaining enjoyment and friendship in class, the boys spent many outside hours entertaining for vesper concerts, in Joy Night, and at junior high schools.

Harmony continued to be the keynote of the Girls and Boys Octets this year. These two musical groups were kept busy singing for school assemblies, vesper concerts, Joy Night, private clubs, and business organizations.

Band and Orchestra Perform Through Year

This year would not have been complete without the Lincoln High School band—the band that rocked 'n' rolled school spirit into the spectators at football and basketball games—the band that marched in many parades wearing well the Lincoln High colors.

Skits performed by the band members during half-time at football games honored television programs and personalities.

Parades, Athletic Events, Concerts, and Vespers

The band's rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner" at athletic events created a feeling of patriotism throughout the crowd of spectators.

The Lincoln High School orchestra also added a musical flavor to school events. The mellow notes of the orchestra entertained audiences before plays and vesper concerts, in assemblies, and accompanying the opera.

These two organizations have added a true musical note to Lincoln High School during the past year.

Prep Band and Twirlers Perfect New Routines

One of Lincoln High School's lesser known organizations is the Prep Band. It is what might be called the "reserve team." The members will make up the Advanced Band of the future. Many hours of practice are put forth before they perform before the public.

The Twirlers also spend much time practicing. They can always be seen leading the Advanced Band onto the football field for the playing of the Star Spangled Banner. They also provide halftime entertainment by performing well-executed drills and formations.

TWIRLERS: Schmidt, Jackson, Harm, Owens, Walker, Alyce McMaster, Gettman, Arline McMaster, Karnopp, West, Ryan, Timm.

SAFETY COMMITTEE: Bottom Row: Crosby, Fisk, Cadwallader, chairman of Parking and Traffic Committee; Kezeor, chairman of General Safety Committee; Fusselman, chairman of Fire Committee; Zolot, chairman of Civil Defense Committee; Spaedt, Place, Degenhardt. Committees Plan, Organize Projects

The main project of the Safety Committee, sponsored by Carl Manthey and Mrs. Alice Youngscap, was the conducting of fire and civil defense drills.

The Library Committee, directed by Miss Emma Snyder, chose new books to be added to the school library.

Miss Mary Sigler sponsored the Assembly Committee, which planned and introduced all assemblies.

The Extra-Curricular Activities Committee, under Miss Edith Ellis, checked pupils' E. C. A. records.

Various Groups Render Services to LHS

"May I have your ticket, please?" This can always be heard coming from a smiling boy or girl at all Lincoln High performances. These pupils belong to the Usherettes and Doormen, service organizations which assist at all plays, vespers, operas, and Joy Night performances, and at any other occasion when they are needed.

A group of sophomore girls make up the Usherettes, and it is the duty of these girls to take ticket stubs, usher people to their seats, and hand out programs at LHS performances.

Boys from all grades make up the Doormen. They assist at all exits and direct people to their seats at all presentations.

The movie operators are always on hand to run a film, tape recorder, or record player for any class or school group. In addition to this, they repair broken projectors and sound equipment.

Indeed, the members of these organizations contribute a great deal of time and service to the smooth running of the school.

Debaters Participate in Many Tournaments

The Lincoln High School Debate Squad took part in many activities and tournaments this year, under the supervision of Clinton Nelson, coach.

In December, Lincoln High participated in an invitational tournament at Lincoln Northeast, and debated at the Missouri Valley Boys Tournament. The team took part in the Wesleyan Invitational Tournament.

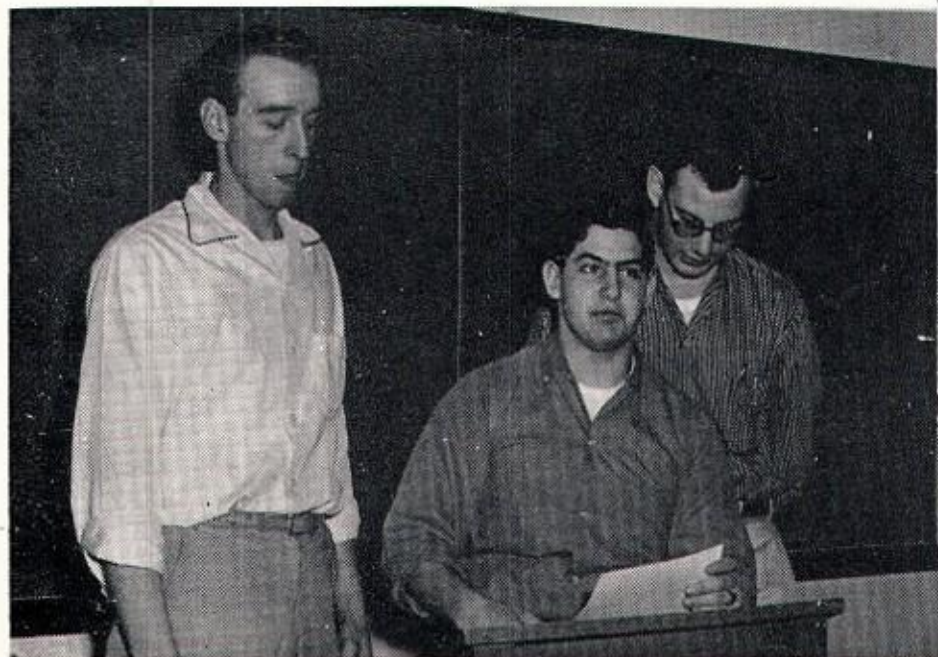

The squad took Class A first place in the Mercy Debate Tournament held at Omaha Cathedral, and debated at Midland College in Fremont during February. Sid Chesnin and Mike Watkins won individual honors by placing second in the Pius X Tournament for beginners.

The District Debate Tournament was held at the University of Nebraska in April, and debaters also participated in the University's Fine Arts Festival.

The National Forensic League, a society to encourage speech activities, is a nationwide organization in which points are awarded for every debate activity, and awards are presented according to the number of points received.

Presenting a demonstration debate to gain experience before facing their real opponents are Darryl Biggerstaff, Gary Hill, and Mike Graetz.

"Scribe" Produced By Writers Club

Students with a talent or interest in writing were always found busy at work after school at meetings of the Writers Club. Under the sponsorship of Miss Wanda Cramer and Miss Irene Martin, club members made creative fun the objective of their meetings. They wrote anything from essays about hilarious incidents to comic commercials. Workshop meetings, where members read their own manuscripts and received criticism from other members, helped these literary hopefuls to grow in writing skill.

During the second semester, the important objective of the Writers Club was the reading and criticizing of entries for the Scribe, Lincoln High's literary magazine, which was published in the spring. These entries were made by the student body and consisted of essays, short stories, and poems. The Writers Club helped choose the members of the Scribe staff, which selected and organized the material to be published.

People of Note Form Orpheons and Clef Club

What musical talent dwells in Lincoln High's hallowed halls!

The musicians of the junior and senior classes blend their talents to form the Orpheons Club. Twice monthly they meet to listen to performances from club members and to discuss the current word in music.

Clef Club, Orpheons' sophomore counterpart, also holds twice monthly meetings, to hear melodic exhibitions from its talented members of note.

Of these people we can be proud!

Y-Teens Active in City and School Projects

Hanging of the greens, selling book covers, and the Snowball Formal are only a few activities undertaken by the Y-Teens. This is one of the largest clubs in Lincoln High School, and is sponsored by the Y.W.C.A., a worldwide organization. Their primary purpose is to help build universal understanding and good will.

For entertainment, the Y-Teens annually present the Snowball Formal. This year, Rochelle Hergenrader was crowned Snowball Princess from Lincoln High School. Mimi Caldwell was her attendant.

Every year a style show is held, to help the girls choose their school clothes and learn the latest styles. They work hand-in-hand with the downtown Y.W.C.A., helping to plan activities and organize new Y-Teen clubs throughout the city. The fun of working and playing together makes the Y-Teens one of Lincoln High's most popular organizations.

The Lincoln High School chapter of Quill and Scroll, international journalism society for high school journalists, has been organized for only two years. In order to become a member, a student must have excelled in some phase of journalistic endeavor, be in the upper third of his class, and be approved by the journalism sponsor.

Students applying for membership in Quill and Scroll must make an exhibit of their journalistic work and send it to the organization's headquarters. Students meriting membership are then decided upon. This year, twenty-five persons were accepted for membership, and they were initiated in May by past Quill and Scroll members.

Every girl will long remember her first few weeks at Lincoln High School, and her Coed Counselor. The members of this organization hold a tea a week before school begins to become better acquainted with their counselees. At this tea, they help incoming sophomores to find their lockers and new classrooms.

After the beginning of school, Coed Counselors keep in contact with their girls and turn in a report each week after meeting with them. These reports are made available to home room counselors and office personnel.

The girls also sell concessions after school to earn money for their club.

"Mr. Fuller! Mr. Fuller! We did it! We've struck water!" shouts Mr. Kimber (John Hoerner) to Newton Fuller (Johnny Hamilton), as his wife, Annabelle Fuller (Judy Ludlam), looks on in amazement.

A sudden disaster puts Annabelle (Judy Ludlam), Newton (Johnny Hamilton), Mr. Kimber (John Hoerner), Steve Eldridge (Roger Dean), Rena Leslie (Janice Hellweg), Madge Fuller (Liz Morris), and Clayton Evans (Jack Houchen) in an uproar.

Mummers Present "George Washington Slept Here"

Would you buy a house because George Washington had slept in it? Well, that was the circumstance under which such a house was secretly bought by Newton Fuller in the Mummers Play, George Washington Slept Here. Fuller's wife, daughter, and daughter's boy friend were not overly impressed by this ancient and decrepit purchase. The situation became worse when they learned that there was no water on the land and the only road was owned by an unfriendly neighbor, Mr. Prescott. Two summer theater actors and various friends and relatives visited the Fullers at the most inopportune times to add to the comedy, but the play ended happily—during a hurricane.

As Uncle Stanley (Brad Wright) and Mr. Prescott (Zeff Bernstien) straighten out property difficulties, Rena (Janice Hellweg) and Annabelle (Judy Ludlam) make a final effort to control Cousin Raymond (Bill Orwig).

Dramatic Experience Gained by Mimes, Mummers

The Mummers, Lincoln High's junior-senior dramatic club, gave its many members pointers in such fields as make-up, directing, acting, and stage-setting.

This group presented the hilarious comedy, George Washington Slept Here, and members of the club worked on advertising, programs, props, costumes, and various other committees in order to produce the play.

The group also had an exchange program with the Northeast High School dramatics club to present different skits and get ideas on their club organization.

The anxious understudies of Mummers, members of Mimes Club, worked very hard at their bi-weekly meetings to gain poise in acting before an audience.

Jokes, readings, and skits were presented at each meeting, and the goal to overcome stage fright was finally attained at the end of the year.

International Club Aims at "Globe-Trotting"

Many students fulfill their "dreams of travel" by becoming members of International Club. By listening to speakers, reading about foreign countries, and visiting with the American Field Service exchange students, nearly every corner of the globe can be visited. The club sponsors varied fund raising projects to aid in sending Lincoln students to foreign countries through the AFS program.

In the spring, the club sponsored a Smorgasbord held in the Lincoln High Cafeteria. This project helped to raise money for the American Field Service.

Red Cross Goals Advanced by Future Nurses

This year, in cooperation with the Lincoln Red Cross, a Junior Red Cross Council was organized at Lincoln High. Members took part in varied activities sponsored by the National Red Cross.

Members of the Future Nurses Club furthered the aims of the Red Cross by learning more about health and safety at their meetings. The club cooperated with the Safety Committee in staging fire and civil defense drills.

Aqualinks, Camera Club Improve Techniques

The new swimming pool and the underwater sound system were assets for this year's Aqualinks. They learned and practiced synchronized swimming this year under the direction of Miss Betty Heckman. At their weekly meetings, the Aqualinks practiced strokes, stunts, and dives, and worked on their spring water show, "Satire of a Sultan."

The most noteworthy project of this year's Camera Club, under the sponsorship of R. W. Howland, was the taking, developing, and printing of better pictures. To accomplish this, members took pictures of various school functions, developed and printed them, sold them to interested persons, and discussed the results.

Art, Science Club Members Seek New Methods

Promising young artists worked together on all kinds of art work during meetings of the Art Club. Members met with professional people in order to understand better the qualities necessary to carry on their work. Advice from club sponsors along with criticisms from fellow members helped to develop more skillful techniques and more careful planning of artful endeavors.

Learning about phenomena stranger than fiction made Science Club interesting to its members. Speakers and discussions, livened meetings, and the probing minds of the scientists of the future presented many interesting questions and topics for discussion.

Everything from nuclear fission to space travel sparked the attentions of the members as they worked on experiments which someday may lead them to new discoveries.

Cheerleaders Spark Lincoln High Spirit

Lincoln High's Cheerleaders spent a busy year planning pep assemblies, leading cheers for team send-offs, and filling fans with Lincoln High spirit at athletic events.

Six Apprentice Cheerleaders were chosen at the beginning of the basketball season. They cheered for reserve and sophomore games, and, along with the Varsity Cheerleaders, practiced cheering and coordination at weekly meetings.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Irma Coombs and Miss Marguerite Gundermann, the girls designed new emblems for their sweaters and introduced many new cheers to the student body.

The Cheerleaders welcomed cheerleaders from opposing teams through pre-game dinners. They did much to spark the Lincoln High sports year and make it a success.

Year's L Club Program Highlighted by Reunion Of Former Lettermen

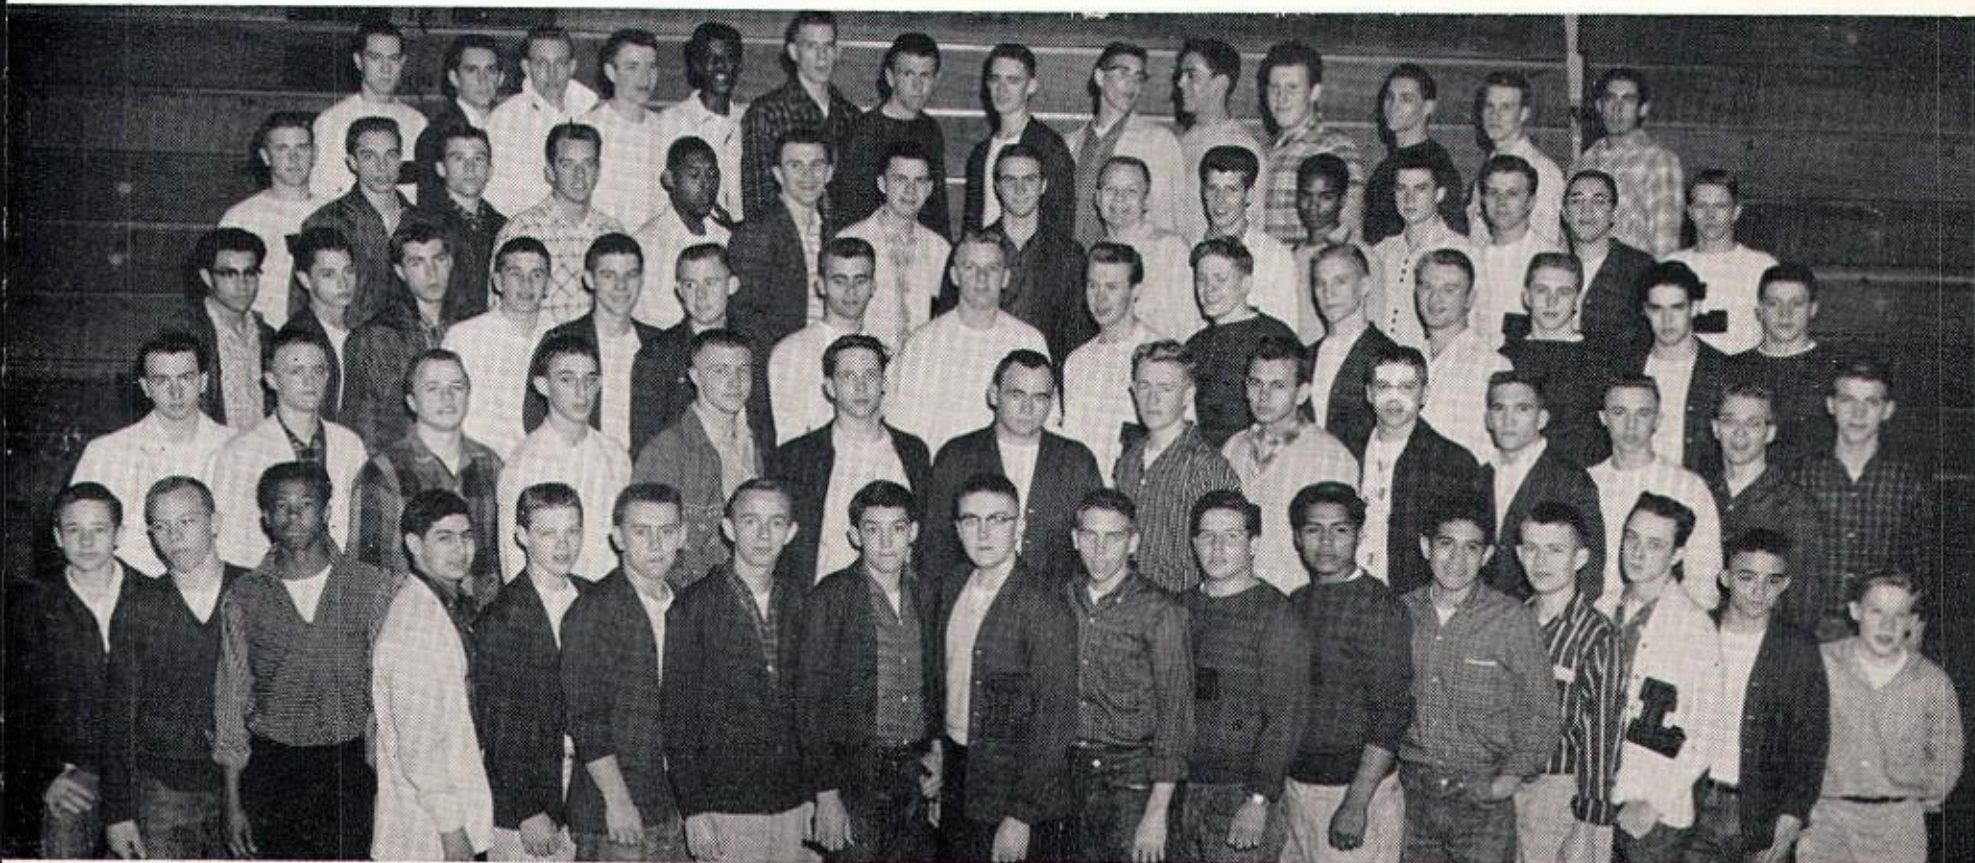

Talking over some important matters of business are L Club officers Terry Sapp, vice-president; Jim Houser, treasurer; Lyall Luff, secretary; and Bill Arledge, president.

Again this year, the L Club, made up of Lincoln High Varsity lettermen, took over many worthwhile activities. The club's first project was cleaning and polishing all the Lincoln High School trophies, and placing them in the new trophy cases in the Lincoln Public Schools Activities Building. L Club members also sold concessions at football and basketball games.

One of the year's outstanding activities was the L Club reunion held in the Lincoln High cafeteria after the Hastings basketball game. Former club members were admitted to the game free, and they received an L Club news letter which was prepared by Harold Scott, one of the L Club sponsors.

Two New Coaches Lead LHS Gridders Through 1956 Football Season

Varsity Coaches Schwartzkopf and Sommers

Although Lincoln High School's 1956 football team did not emerge from the season with a spectacular win record, they showed great spirit on the field and a tremendous desire to win. Ed Schwartzkopf, in his first year as head coach, whipped his men into top physical condition early in the season.

A new face, that of Jim Sommers, was seen on the practice field and coaching from the sidelines. The 1956 season was Sommers' first as backfield coach for Lincoln High.

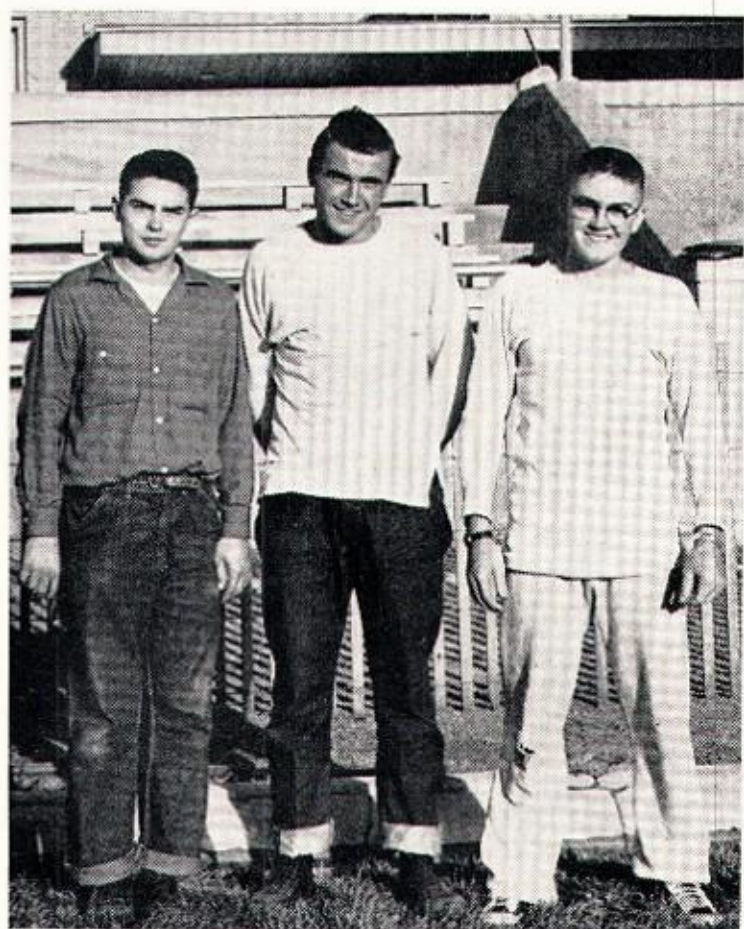

The Links started the season with twelve returning lettermen. Their first game ended in a disappointing 13-12 loss to Omaha Central after a hard fought battle.

The second game was more heartening to the Links as they rolled to a 29-20 victory over the North Platte Bulldogs.

The hard-driving Warriors from Sioux Falls, South Dakota's Washington High School were new opponents for the Links this season. The score at the end of this contest read: Warriors 18, Links 2.

Lincoln High miscued again on the next Friday night at Grand Island, going down in a 13-6 defeat. However, they bounced back to shut out the Scottsbluff crew, 26-0, in a game dominated all the way by the hungry Links.

Larry Grenemeier (41) and Phil Mendoza (behind 50) arrive too late to help Don Swanson (carrying ball) who has made a good gain against Scottsbluff.

A terrific Omaha North team handed Lincoln High its worst beating of the season, 40-6, on the following Thursday night. Omaha South, the next foe to be entertained in the oval, handed the Links a 26-7 defeat.

Three second-half touchdowns gave Omaha Tech a 19-7 victory over the Links.

A starving Links team entertained Lincoln High alumni at the annual Homecoming game by crushing the fizzled-out Northeast Rockets, 52-12, in the season wind-up.

Lincoln sportswriters named six Links gridgers to the 1956 All-City Team. They were Don Davis, John Elliott, Joe Gacusana, Phil Mendoza, Bill Swanson, and Paul Ude.

Joe Gacusana (80) snags a pass for a long gain, but a determined Packer from Omaha South is just behind him.

Sophomores, Reserves Gain Grid Experience

The Sophomore grid crew gained invaluable experience this year in their schedule of six games. Their three losses were to the Boys Town Sophomores, Lincoln Northeast Sophomores, and Links Reserves, by scores of 2-0, 15-0, and 13-6. Their three wins came from the Lincoln Southeast Reserves, 19-0;

Beatrice Reserves, 27-6; and Crete Reserves, 7-6.

In their five-game schedule, the Links Reserves won three and lost two, their two losses going to Boys Town Reserves, 25-8 and 38-0. Three victories came from Lincoln Northeast, 33-12; Grand Island, 14-7; and the Links Sophomores, 13-6.

Moore

With only three returning lettermen on the squad, the 1956-1957 cage team did a surprisingly good job and finished the season with an eight win, seven loss record. John Elliott, Brian Etheridge, and Neil Unterseher were the returning lettermen who paced the Links and provided the bulk of experience in this year's round-ball play.

After falling 49-41 to the pre-season favorite, Fremont, in the season opener in the new Lincoln Public Schools Activities Building, the Links struck for five straight wins over fighting opponents. McCook was defeated 55-46, Fairbury by a score of 54-40, Northeast fell 44-43, and was again stunned 50-46 after the Links had practiced on the Southeast five swamping them by a score of 68-37.

The next week end, Boys Town invaded and whipped the Links 52-38 by using a full court press much of the game. In their next two games the Links failed to sink enough field goals and fell to Beatrice and Omaha Tech by scores of 51-41 and 57-56. The cagers then bounced off the springboard to slip by Grand Island, 53-48.

The North Platte Bulldogs were the next to bow before the determined Links, 54-51. Nearly 150 former L Club members watched this contest and attended the L Club reunion after the game.

On the following week end, Hastings became the last team to fall to the inconsistent Links. In the final minute and a half of the game, Ude's four quick points and Unterseher's pair of free throws gave the Links a 54-48 win.

The regular season ended on a dismal note when Omaha's South and Central surprised the Links, 51-45, and 60-41.

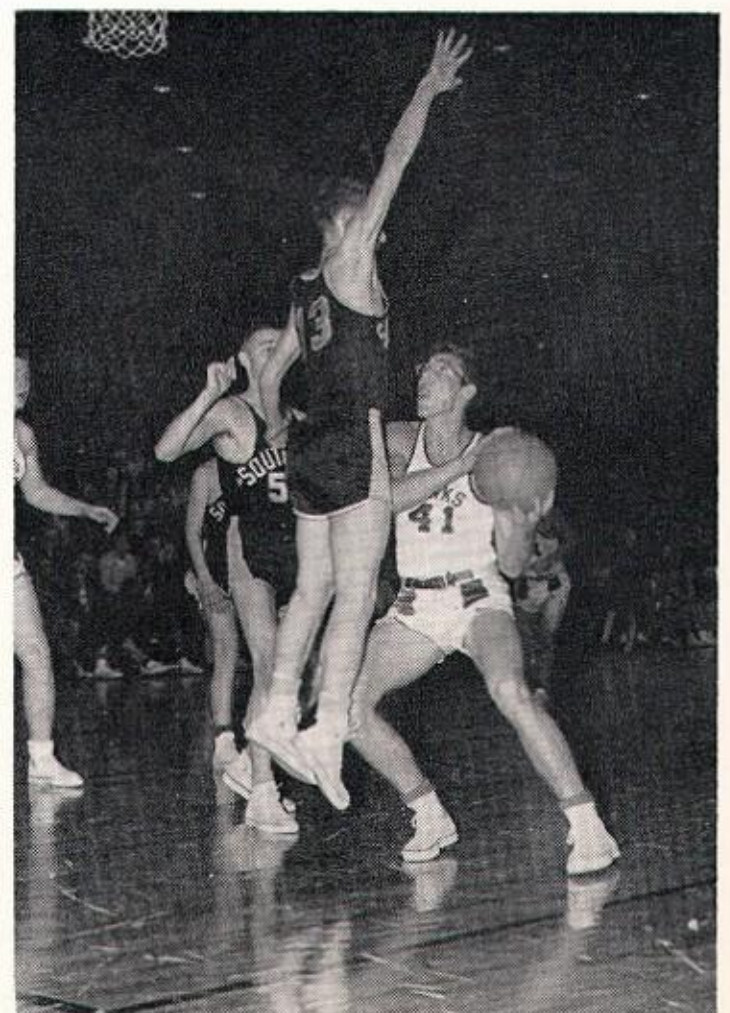

The Links went down in a 69-58 defeat at the hands of a spirited Grand Island cage squad in the district tourney. This loss canceled all chances of a state title for the Links.

Two Lincoln High starters, John Elliott and Brian Etheridge, were chosen by Lincoln sportswriters at the finish of the season for membership on the mythical All-City Team.

Links Grapplers Paced by Four City Champs

Harold Gilliland's Wrestling Team had a full schedule of ten dual meets and the city and state tournaments. The grapplers garnered sixteen points and placed seventh in the state meet.

Gene Barnhill, Larry Holman, Jay Parsons, and Roland Wallick were city champs, and Larry Snyder and Gene Tice were narrowly beaten by a referee's decision in the city finals.

Gene Barnhill proved to be the season's outstanding grappler. He was beaten only once in the regular season and finished third in the state meet.

As usual, Harry Kuklin's boys were in top form for the all-important state meet. Larry Converse, Roger Corn, and Joe Gacusana each took first place in their specialties, and the Links took first place in both the 200-yard medley and free style relays.

The Links also copped the city crown, and lost only one meet during the regular season.

Girls with an incentive to participate in athletic activities find their desires fulfilled by the program of the Girls Athletic Association. This program enables girls to earn emblems and letters, in addition to one-half hour of credit for every sport in which they participate. Good sportsmanship, exercise, and the establishment of new friendships are valuable assets gained from GAA.

GAA members concluded their active year with a picnic held in May. The climax of the year, which came on Color Day, was the presentation of the coveted GAA Award, which went to the club's outstanding senior member.

The business firms of Lincoln —who integrate Lincoln High School with the community, and to whom a vote of thanks goes for their generous support of The 1957 Links . . .
... These are the Links.

Jim Brodeky, Bob Walenta, and Dennis Haas inspect the wide selection of greeting cards at ALVORD PHARMACY. This drug store also has complete fountain and prescription service.

Pat Burnett, Janice Wilkins, and Margaret Wilson complete their purchases at CHEAPER DRUGS. This pharmacy boasts complete drug, sundries, and picture developing service.

All the items on the menu in the TEE PEE ROOM of the Cornhusker Hotel are very tempting to Kent Amerman, Judie Anderson, Jeannine Fenton, and Gene Tice. They know the food will be delicious, whatever their order.

Bonnie Bush gives Nancy Stefanisin and Marty Davey all the details of HOVLAND-SWANSON'S newly formed High Stylers group, of which she is a member.

It is plain to see that Donna Jackson, John Usher, Davy Zolot, and Roger Young are enjoying the relaxing atmosphere and traditionally good food at KING'S DRIVE-IN.

Lee Liming shows Jeanne Carrier and Judy Lutz all the fine points about new and used furniture at LIMING FURNITURE AND CHET'S TRANSFER.

Laurie Blende, Johnny Cox, and Pat Myers are sure to find all the latest record hits in the Tune Shop at MILLER & PAINE. Items for every need can be found in this store's many departments.

Susan Stanley, Laurel Rager, and Mary Ann Quattrocchi have selected a sweatshirt from the complete line of "N" shirts, school supplies, and text books at THE NEBRASKA BOOK STORE.

Pat Porter and Jim Houser hope that some day they can drive out of RANDOLPH OLDSMOBILE COMPANY in a sporty new car like this Oldsmobile convertible in which they are relaxing.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS has so many different colors and shades of paint that Susie Backstrom, Carol McAllister, Jeanne Finks, and Rosemary Allacher can't seem to decide on the one they like best.

Margaret Liebers, Melinda Morgan, and Renée Polsky thoroughly agree that it's best to abandon all diets when faced with a delicious sundae from SKYLINE DAIRY.

Work on The 1957 Links has begun, and Mr. Fred Kissler of WOODRUFF PRINTING COMPANY shows Kate Haggie, Links managing editor, and Barbara Barker, Links editor, some layout techniques.

ANDERSON STUDIO has done another fine job on this portrait. Judy Feather and Kay O'Neill have decided that next year they will have their senior pictures taken at this photography studio.

Janice Hellweg, Sue Healey, Janice Myrberg, and Judy Hanneman look thoroughly puzzled by the mechanism of the pasteurizing machine at BEATRICE FOODS COMPANY, but it assures them of delicious milk and dairy products.

Mike Schumacher, Roger Dean, and Jim Eno all fit into this clean-looking Corvette at the DUTEAU CHEVROLET COMPANY. They all agree that this is the kind of car they would like to own.

Gary Hill and Mike Graetz know that the key to a happy future lies in a savings account at the FIRST NATIONAL BANK. This bank boasts many other fine banking and saving facilities.

Seeming very pleased with their ice cream from the LINCOLN DAIRY AND ICE CREAM COMPANY are Lois Breslow, Gaylene Million, Jane Baumgartner, and Judy Griffin, as they are served in the Lincoln High cafeteria.

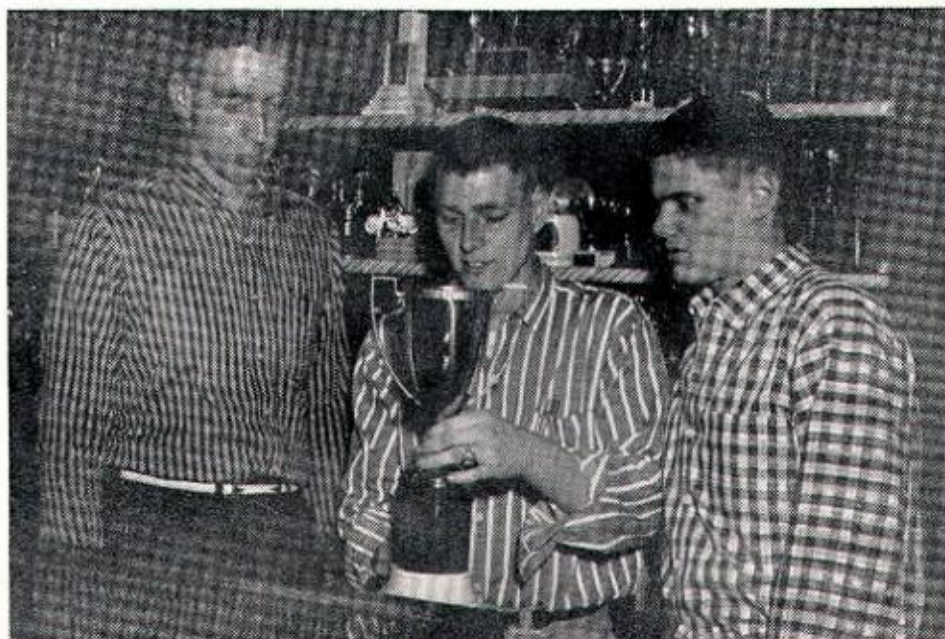

Janet Freese, Kathy Fisk, Ann McIntyre, and Bonnie Beckmann relax in the lobby of the modern building of the MIDWEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, where "the policy is good insurance."

This bottling machine at NEHI BOTTLING COMPANY puts the caps on bottles containing many flavors of pop. Sharon Ellsworth, Karin Jungtorp, and Sarah Colby seem very pleased with their drinks.

Silvija Liepnieks, a Links photographer, and Stan Icen, of Camera Club, are fascinated by this enlarger at PAT ASH CAMERA STORE. This store also has a fine selection of other photographic equipment.

This trophy is very appealing to Darryl Biggerstaff, Don Rixstine, and Jerry Hahn. A complete line of trophies, "L" pins, and class rings can be found at the RIXSTINE JEWELRY COMPANY.

As Art Hughes, Bob Stein, and George Bray inspect the milk cartons at ROBERTS DAIRY, they find that only the most sanitary equipment is used in handling Roberts dairy products.

You can be sure that pictures taken by TOWNSEND STUDIO will be even more life-like than this one of Carolyn Frey and Sharon Smith. This photography studio also has a wide selection of picture frames.

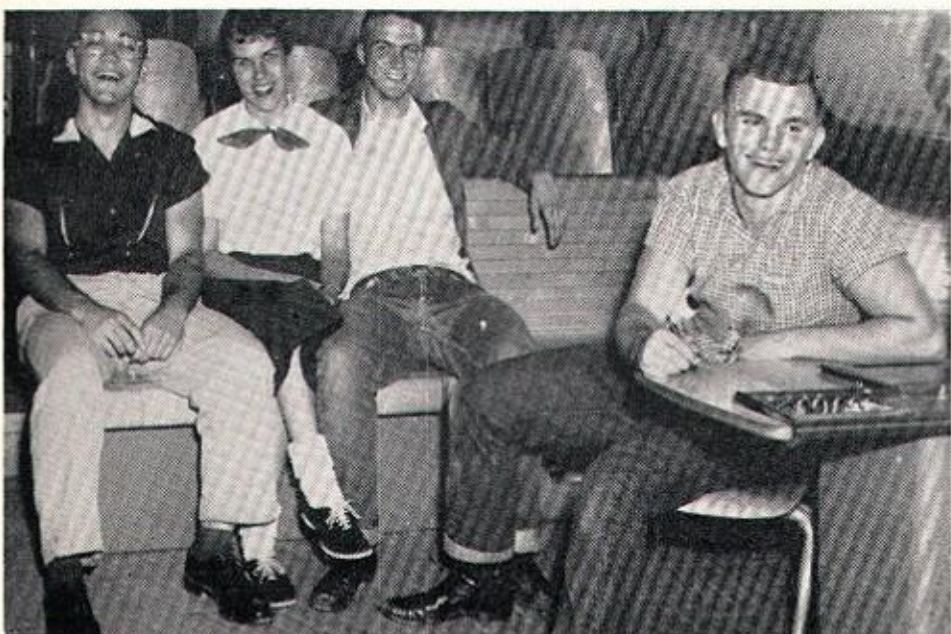

Betty Pillard and Dianne Camp are selecting their favorite shade of lipstick at ALLEN DRUG STORE. This drug store also has a complete prescription department and a fine lunch counter.

Jack Houchen and Mr. Drew DeVriendt seem very pleased as they examine the color division pages for The 1957 Links. CAPITAL ENGRAVING COMPANY has done another fine job for this yearbook.

Pro Sherman feels as many other people do, that a safe deposit box at the COMMONWEALTH COMPANY is the very best place to keep his valuables safe.

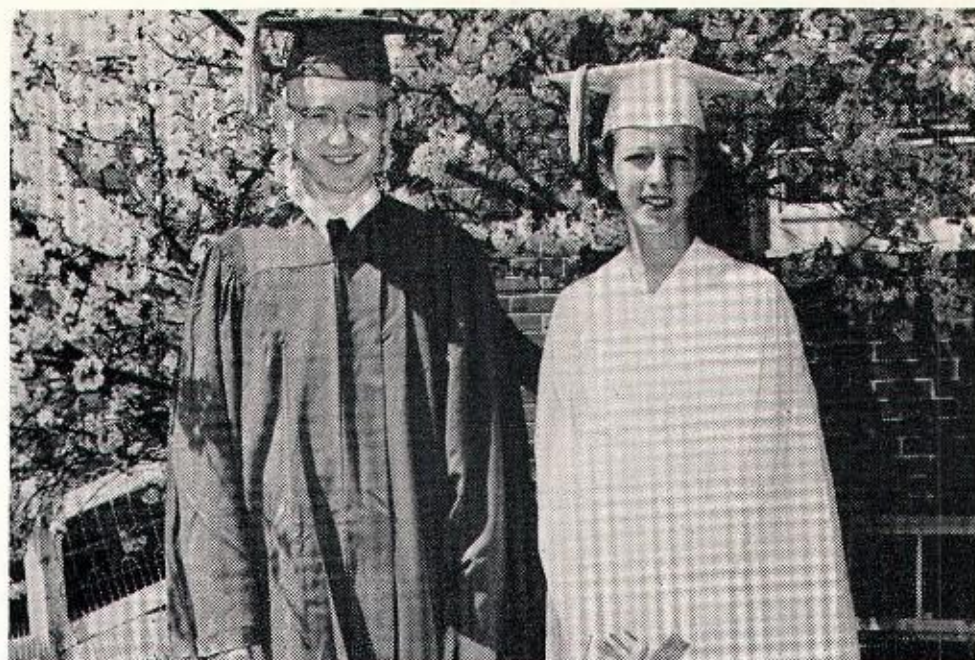

Ready and eagerly waiting to begin bowling a line at the new and modern HOLLYWOOD BOWL are Bill Arledge, Barb Phillips, John Elliott, and Don Davis.

Jan Foltz and Neil Unterseher agree that these globes would come in very handy in their geography lessons. They go to LATSCH BROTHERS INCORPORATED for all their study needs.

Herb Probasco, Sony Martin, and Jim Meisinger are selecting their favorite linoleum at MEISINGER BROTHERS. They know that any product at this fine store will satisfy all their linoleum needs.

Top on any graduate's list, as Frank Gillen and Sandra Sanger know, are graduation caps and gowns from MOHAWK CAP AND GOWN COMPANY.

Dave Calhoun can be sure that until he needs this money, it will be working for him in a savings account at the NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.

Enjoying the comfort and luxury of a 1957 Plymouth at WHITE MOTORS COMPANY, Lincoln's DeSoto-Plymouth dealer, are Deanne Duis and Marshall Bruce.

Dick Spaedt, Sherry Turner, Bill Orwig, and Barbara Carey look over the many varieties of wallpaper at VAN SICKLE PAINT AND GLASS COMPANY. They know that this is the place to go for quality paints, wallpaper, and glass.

Harriet Strickland wisely follows the rule "a penny saved is a penny earned." She knows that her savings will be safe in an account at the CONTINENTAL NATIONAL BANK.

Roger Young seems to be very pleased with Ann Billmyer's typing ability, as she tries out a new typewriter model at the NEBRASKA TYPEWRITER COMPANY.
